SECOND SIEGE STARTS

Defenders Ready For Bitter Hold-Out Reports From Cairo Reveal.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)—American civilians in Egypt are being advised by the state department to evacuate as rapidly as possible, it was learned today.

(By United Press)

CAIRO, Egypt—Axis mechanized forces slashed through the Gambut sector of the Libyan fighting front today, cut the Mediterranean coastal road, isolated Tobruk and drove the main British army back to the Egyptian frontier despite a series of counter-blows on the south desert front.

The stronghold of Tobruk, which the British apparently are again going to hold to the bitter end, was thus put under siege by Nazi Col. Gen. Erwin Rommel, and the bulk of the eighth army fell back some 80 miles to their strong fortifications on the Egyptian border.

The Axis drive to surround Tobruk was successful due to a breakthrough somewhere east of Gambut, which lies midway between Tobruk and Bardia, on the north Libyan coast.

The British communique, however, said that the eighth army under Lt. Gen. Neil M. Ritchie was striking from the south to hold the enemy along the coastal road east of Tobruk and that one daring British counter-attack had resulted in the shelling of the enemy airdrome at El Adem, south of Tobruk.

(The German and Italian communiques today claimed that 1,000 British soldiers were taken prisoner in the Tobruk sector and that 10 British tanks and much war material were destroyed. The

Mansfielder Tells Thrilling Story of Lexington's Last Hour; Another 'Missing In Action' In Pacific Sea Battle

He's Home But Only to Wait for New Crack at Japs.

By FRED ACKERMAN

The thrilling story of the Lexington's last hour was told today by one of Mansfield's sons who was aboard her through the Coral Sea engagement and escaped before the carrier blew up.

Believed to be the first to return to the Mansfield area from the bitter sea engagement, 20-year-old Walter C. Clark, Mansfield R. D. 2, arrived in Mansfield yesterday afternoon on a brief leave. He lives with his sister, Mrs. Lula Seaman at the Forest Gardens trailer camp, Olivesburg road.

Bronzed by the tropical sun, young Clark recounted a vivid story of the inflexible determination and cool courage which drive both officers and men through the long bitter struggle.

A series of explosions taking place in the Lexington after the raiding Japanese aircraft were either destroyed or driven off, sent the Lexington to the bottom. Casualties were comparatively light and the men were taken off before the carrier sank.

Clark who came through the battle unscathed showed no ill effects of his gruelling experience although he narrowly escaped death several times, once when a Jap machine gun bullet pierced the leg of his trousers and again when one of the five torpedoes which tore huge holes in the ship hit directly under him.

The Mansfield youth and other

Walter C. Clark, 20-year-old Mansfield member of a navy anti-aircraft gun crew, who was aboard the aircraft carrier Lexington in her last gallant fight in the Coral sea, came home on furlough yesterday. Undaunted by his experience, he said "I want another crack at those Japs."

William Sawhill Missing, Parents Told In Wire.

By ALVIN L. KRIEG

Another Mansfield family received official notification today that their son—William Sawhill, 22, radio man on a torpedo plane attached to an aircraft carrier in Pacific service—is "missing in action."

The parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Sawhill, 409 West Fourth street, were anticipating the telegram to arrive today, because by an unusual circumstance they had received earlier notification from the commanding officer of the carrier.

An air mail letter received yesterday informed the family that their son was listed as "missing in action." This was the first instance in cases of this sort that any Richland county family has received word from the serviceman's commanding officer before the official notice arrived from either the war or navy departments.

Sawhill, a radio man third class, is the 10th Mansfielder to be listed as "missing in action" since the start of the war, and two others—both officers in the army air corps, were killed in a plane crash in India. Of the nine others listed as "missing in action," one other, Wilbur B. Linn, was in the navy.

The others include a marine corps sergeant, an army infantry man, and six members of an army tank battalion, all of whom were on Bataan pe. ·sula before it fell

FDR, Churchill Meet Secretly, Plan Strategy

Washington Emphasizes Importance of Win-the-War Conferences; British Prime Minister Makes Spectacular Air Journey to United States.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Britain's prime minister and America's president put their heads together at a secret rendezvous today over win-the-war strategy, and an abundance of factors added to a conviction on either side of the Atlantic that they were weighing plans for opening a second battlefront in Europe.

Presidential Secretary Stephen Early said he considered speculation on a second front "perfectly justified."

It was Early who announced last night that Winston Churchill, England's pudgy, pictueresque war leader, had come to the United States a second time within seven months, bringing with him some of his top-flight military advisers, for conferences on "the war, the conduct of the war, and the winning of the war."

The spectacular air journey of Churchill and his party to this country converted it for the time being into headquarters for a major segment of the military high command of the United Nations. The entire world looked toward Washington, as a result, for portentous decisions which might start the war off on a new and fateful tangent.

But the president's usual Friday press conference was cancelled, and Early said no statements need be expected either from Mr. Roosevelt or the prime minister during the rest of the week.

There was not the slightest tendency here to minimize the significance of the Roosevelt-Churchill deliberations, coming as they did so soon after Russia's foreign commissar, V. M. Molotov, had made secret visits to London and Washington.

As soon as Molotov was safely back in Moscow, announcements were forthcoming of an Anglo-Russian 20-year mutual assistance pact and of an understanding among Britain, Russia and the United States on "the urgent tasks of creating a second front in Europe in 1942."

Molotov's trip was widely regarded as an integral part of recently developing Allied strategy designed to keep the common enemy worrying over signposts pointing in the general direction of another fighting front.

Among the signposts were these:

A second front could be counted on to siphon off some of the Nazi strength now concentrated against the British in Libya and the Russian armies in the Crimea and at Kharkov.

Britain in recent weeks has stepped up air raids on continental objectives to a tremendous degree and promised to send a thousand planes a night over Nazi-held war production centers of western Europe.

The United States sent her ranking generals to England in recent weeks for war councils with their British counterparts, and General George C. Marshall, chief of staff of the army, asserted that "the time for action is near."

The American expeditionary force in Northern Ireland has been reinforced repeatedly by

Japs Hurl New Planes Into Battle of Southwest Pacific

(By United Press)

MELBOURNE — Japan has thrown heavy reinforcements of new, vastly improved fighter and bomber planes into the southwest Pacific front against the Allied air forces, already outnumbered, a United States army air corps spokesman said today.

The fighters are faster and more maneuverable than the Japanese zero fighters, they can climb higher, and they are armed with two .20 calibre cannon and four light machine guns each. They are most effective in accompanying high altitude bombers or intercepting high-flying Allied bombing planes which usually have to operate without fighter protection.

The new bombers are two-motored planes, an improvement of the Japanese 96 model with a top speed of 270 miles. They have defensive cannon and more machine guns than previous models but lack a power driven turret.

Taking advantage of their new planes, the Japanese made their third raid in three days yesterday on Port Moresby, the Allied base in New Guinea, Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced today in his communique.

Eighteen bombers, protected by fighters, again sought to bomb the harbor area. Prompt and determined opposition by Allied fighters kept them off and they succeeded only in damaging one small ship, MacArthur said.

Two enemy bombers and one fighter were downed, and the Allies lost two fighters.

The enemy, in addition to bombing Port Moresby, had made four big raids on Darwin, the great north coast base, with the new planes.

GOES TO SENATE

Bill Would Give U. S. Fleet World Supremacy.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— An $8,550,000,000 ship construction measure designed to give the United States fleet unquestioned world supremacy went to the senate today after winning unanimous and enthusiastic house passage.

The house appropriations committee began immediately the final stages of its study of the army's requirements, with the likelihood that a record-high bill of approximately $40,000,000,000—more than the entire direct cost of World war No. 1—would emerge for action Tuesday.

The unprecedented naval expansion measure was passed by the house yesterday on a roll call vote of 316 to 0, after naval committee members declared completion of the program in 1946 would find this country's fleet stronger than the combined navies of all the rest of the world.

TRAINS COLLIDE

17 Injured In Wreck at Border of California, Nevada.

LOS ANGELES —(INS)— Seventeen persons were slightly injured early today when two sections of the eastbound Union Pacific Challenger train collided in the company's yards at Yermo, on the California-Nevada border.

The injured were treated at the scene of the accident and returned to the train to continue their journey. None required hospitalization.

RAWLINS, Wyo. —(INS)— The Tripletts had triplets at Rawlins Memorial hospital yesterday, and today they were getting along nicely in an incubator.

The three boys, born to Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Triplett, were said to be the first triplets ever born in Rawlins. The parents have two other children, a two-year-old girl and a three-year-old boy.

JOB OF RATIONS HEAD ABOLISHED

Unpaid Post, Held by Bailey In Mansfield, Eliminated Under New Set-Up.

The position of county rationing co-ordinator—an unpaid job, will be abolished throughout Ohio in a sweeping reorganization of the state rationing system, Harry T. Beckmann, state administrator for the office of price administration, announced in Cleveland today.

The change in set-up was expected to have little effect on the top personnel of Richland county's rationing organization, however.

James Bailey, Richland county corodinator, declined to comment for the present on his future plans, but it was reported the state rationing organization had requested him to continue serving in some other capacity.

Since start of rationing at the first of the year, Bailey has held the dual role of county coordinator and chairman of the Mansfield board. On May 23, he submitted his resignation as local board chairman, but the state headquarters asked him to continue in that position temporarily.

Beckmann said that functions of the county co-ordinators will be taken over by the chiefs of five rationing districts into which Ohio

REPORTS RAID

Rumanian Tells Of U. S. Attack On Black Sea Port.

ISTANBUL, Turkey—(Delayed) —(AP)—A Bucharest resident who saw United States bombers over the Rumanian capital in broad daylight, said today it was reported in Bucharest that they had raided Constanta, Rumania's chief Black Sea port, as well as the oil center of Ploesti.

The raids were made last week. Four of the planes later landed in Turkey.

Richland, All Other County Fairs In Ohio, Called Off

The Richland county fair and 91 other county and local expositions today were ruled out for the duration of the war by Joseph B. Eastman, defense transportation director, and Gov. John W. Bricker.

Citing the acute transportation problem that likely will exist by late summer and the urgent need for saving tires, Eastman requested all fair boards to cancel their plans for 1942 fairs.

Gov. Bricker quickly added that fair boards would have to comply with Eastman's request in the interest of winning the war. The Ohio State fair already has been cancelled.

Eastman also asked that all unnecessary conventions and meetings be deferred to help save tires and avoid overloading the nation's transportation systems.

He pointed out that if the public will voluntarily impose certain restrictions upon travel, there is good reason to hope that "no drastic control over travel will be necessary."

The government request left the Richland county fair board and others in the state puzzled over the future of their fairs and with a great deal of work on their hands in reversing their plans for the year.

"We have been told all along to go ahead and hold our fair for the good of public morale, and it's going to be hard at this late date to back down on our plans," said A. W. Strater, treasurer of the Richland county fair board.

He said the rides and entertainment for the fair, scheduled for Aug. 25-28, have been ordered and virtually all the plans for the fair have been made.

'GETS KILLERS'

Gestapo Claims It Shoots 2 Who Assassinated Heydrich.

LONDON —(AP)— Heinrich Himmler's Gestapo wrote a typical Gestapo ending to the assassination of Germany's notorious "hangman," Reinhard Heydrich, by announcing that his killers had been found in a Prague church yesterday and were "shot while resisting arrest."

The official German announcement said the two men accused of fatally wounding Heydrich near Prague May 27 and others involved in the crime were "Czech Nationals who were dropped from British planes over the protectorate with orders to commit murder."

The British Broadcasting corporation pointed out that word the killers had been "discovered" came two hours after the expiration of an ultimatum to the Czechs to deliver the killers or suffer the consequences.

Draft Send-Off No. 11 Scheduled For 7:30 Tomorrow

A send-off demonstration—first in almost a month and No. 11 in the series of these civic farewell celebrations for selectees leaving for army service, will be staged in Mansfield at 7:30 a. m. tomorrow.

Because the selectees are drawn from the entire county, the attendance should be unusually heavy, said Earl Saltzgaber, chairman of the Richland Victory Civic Committee, which sponsors these events.

The send-off will be staged outside the Richland Trust building. Music will be provided by a sound truck.

The group departing tomorrow, and a number of Richland county residents entering other branches of the service, were guests last night at a "going-away" party at

RULED OUT

Bricker Opponent Barred In Primary, Lacked Signers.

COLUMBUS —(U.P.)— Gov. John W. Bricker today became assured of Republican renomination for a third term when the name of Herbert Hoover of Akron was ruled off the August primary ballot.

Secretary of State John E. Sweeney ruled that Hoover's petitions as a candidate for the governorship nomination lacked sufficient number of valid signatures.

Sweeney said that Hoover, who filed petitions with more than 1400 signatures, had obtained only 962 valid signatures, 38 less than the required 1,000.

Sweeney said the lack of sufficient valid signatures obviated a ruling on the protest of Byron Wade, Youngstown, who had asked the secretary of state to rule Hoover off the ballot on the ground he was not running under the same name by which he was registered as a voter.

Word From M'Gregor Eases Farmer's Worry Over Survey

(By Staff Correspondent)

FREDERICKTOWN — Middlebury township farmers, north of here, breathed easier today after learning from Congressman J. Harry McGregor that it was unlikely their properties would be taken over by the government for possible war needs.

In a letter to Herbert E. Leedy, Knox county farmer, McGregor said it was doubtful that the war department would select the site which had been recently surveyed by army engineers.

"I learn on meeting with war department officials that in all probability, the site will not be selected," McGregor wrote.

The letter eased the concern of some 200 farmers in the area who have been seeking an explanation for the survey, which was completed this week.

The area embraced some 2,000 acres north from Fredericktown to Richland county and west from State Route 13 to the Morrow county line. The army engineers making the survey remained secretive as to its purpose.

A request for an explanation of activities in the area was sent by Leedy to McGregor following a protest meeting of Middlebury township farmers last week.

LONDON: Hint Churchill Seeks More U. S. Help In Middle East

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—One of the main purposes of Prime Minister Churchill's current visit to Washington is believed in some quarters to be enlistment of additional United States help in holding the Middle East against expected German thrusts from Libya toward Egypt and from the Russian Ukraine into the Caucasus.

The extreme gravity of the Libyan-Egyptian situation was viewed today by competent sources as likely to postpone until 1943 any really big United Nations land offensive in western Europe, although commando raids may be increased.

The hit-and-run raids would meet the clamor for a second European front now—something which the British man-in-the-street hopes will result from Churchill's newest Washington visit.

Strategists know that Egypt must be held if the Allies are to bar Hitler from the Middle Eastern oil fields and they know that it is the main bastion against Nazi union with the Japanese somewhere east of Suez for a sharing of the riches of the Indies and a cutting of Allied supply lines to southern Russia.

The presence of American army bombers and other war equipment in this theater proves President Roosevelt's regard for the importance of Egypt and the Suez canal, just as the successes of the Axis Libyan commander, Marshal Rommel, prove that the present forces in the Middle East still are not enough for safety.

Informed sources said that Churchill would like to have more American tanks, planes and ships in the Mediterranean even if it means—as it probably does mean,

MOSCOW: Molotov Again Cites Need for Second Front In 1942

(By Associated Press)

MOSCOW—Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov emphasized anew the "urgent task" of creating a second European front in 1942 before the supreme Soviet last night and expressed the hope that "our common enemy will soon experience to his cost the results of the ever-growing military collaboration" of Soviet Russia, Britain and the United States.

Home from his historic meetings in London and Washington, Molotov presented to the supreme Soviet the 20-year mutual assistance treaty he negotiated in London and received its ceremonial approval. With Premier Joseph Stalin watching and occasionally nodding agreement, Molotov said the treaty consolidated British-Russian relations into a "stable alliance" for the war and the post-war period.

The foreign commissar told of the "serious attention" being given to the question of a second front in London and Washington and said that in the second half of 1942 "deliveries of munitions and supplies to the U. S. S. R. by the Allies will be increased and accelerated."

"This is confirmed above all," he said, "by the increasing dimensions of the deliveries from the United States."

Molotov said the significance of the understanding he reached in Washington was not only in the "recognition of the fact of a fighting collaboration" between

Combine Efforts to Organize Intensified Rubber Campaign

An intensive campaign to round up the scrap rubber in Mansfield and Richland county was under way today with all the oil companies, township and city officials, and the county road department joining in the drive.

The scrap rubber campaign which got under way Monday received new impetus with the naming of a committee headed by C. L. Hartenfels, Mansfield, as county chairman. The committee membership represents every petroleum company operating filling stations in the county. The filling stations previously were designated to receive the old rubber and pay a cent a pound for it.

Working with the county scrap rubber campaign committee will be township trustees who have been asked to report to County Engineer Howard Sword the names of persons who have scrap rubber to turn in.

Sword said four county trucks will be used to collect the rubber on a schedule set up to include every rural district not accessible to filling stations where residents can take their rubber. The schedule includes:

CHURCHILL, FDR START TALKS ON SECOND FRONT

Meet Secretly In U. S. to Plan Strategy of New Attacks.

some of the largest troop convoys ever sent overseas.

Secretary of War Stimson said yesterday that at least temporarily the threat of a Japanese attack on the American west coast was "much less" as a result of the punishment inflicted on the Japanese fleet, primarily in the engagements off Midway island. With such a threat diminished, this country would be in better position to join in a second front operation.

The make-up of the military mission that arrived with Churchill was of a type to lend encouragement to the idea that conversations touching on a second front were in progress.

For example, Churchill brought along Sir Alan Francis Brooke, chief of the imperial general staff, who believes in military innovations and who is regarded by many persons as Britain's outstanding authority on mechanization.

Another in the party was Major General Sir Hastings L. Ismay, deputy military secretary to the war cabinet and chief of staff to Churchill in the latter's capacity as defense minister.

A third military expert in the mission was Brig. Gen. G. M. Stewart, director of plans for the war office.

Conjectures about a second front immediately suggested that the shipping situation would figure prominently in the Churchill-Roosevelt conversations. Linked with that problem was the question of overall naval strategy and the distribution of the combat units of the fleet between overseas convoy duty and protection of shipping along the coasts.

Assurances of adequate shipping might well be a major factor influencing an immediate decision on opening another front, since cargo vessels and transports would be absolutely essential to take troops and weapons to a new battle line.

Among home statesmen, several senators advised caution in the approach to the problem of a second front, although comment on Churchill's latest journey to this country generally assumed a tone of approval.

That the prime minister and president would cover war strategy in all its phases and in all the theaters of action was readily apparent, since battle plans in one area must be governed to some degree by victories or reversals elsewhere.

Then, after analyzing the war production prospects of both Britain and the United States, they would be in a position to reach a definite decision on a second front.

It was believed generally that the two United Nations statesmen were concerned only incidentally with post-war problems, inasmuch as they have agreed on their peacetime objectives. These were set forth in the Atlantic charter and in the declaration of the United Nations, which they signed in the White House last New Year day. Twenty-six other countries have accepted that declaration, as well as the principles of the Atlantic charter.

Axis Tries to Fog Churchill Visit

NEW YORK—(AP)—Axis broadcasts sought today to pass off Prime Minister Churchill's second wartime visit to the United States as a "political gesture" of no real significance.

The Berlin radio took the tact that "Churchill's sudden journey to America is new proof of the weakness of England." It sought to develop the theme that Churchill hoped to "induce Roosevelt to consent to a greater effort by the United States as regarding both men and material since England alone was unable to satisfy (Soviet foreign commissar) Molotov's renewed demand for establishment of a second front."

Rome broadcasters were quick to echo this German explanation of the meeting and added that "the outcome of the war did not depend on such begging visits, but would be decided by force of arms."

The Tokyo radio, hastening to tell its listeners that "formation of a second front is next to impossible," said Churchill's trip was "a mere political gesture for publicity purposes."

RELATES STORY OF SEA BATTLE

Mansfielder, Aboard Lexington Home on Leave; Wants New Crack on Japs.

members of his anti-aircraft battery stationed amidships were thrown against a bulkhead by water forced up through the ship by the torpedo blast.

During the 17-minute engagement Clark said that his crew brought down three torpedo planes and possibly a dive bomber from the swarms of Jap aircraft which filled the air above the Lexington.

"It could have been more," Clark added," because with every battery on the ship throwing lead as fast as possible you can't be very sure just which planes are being brought down by your own battery."

"I can tell you that of the 62 Jap planes which attacked the ship very few, if any, got away.

"Tougher than the battle itself is the suspense before hand while you're waiting at your battle stations for the coming attack," Clark stated.

He said that the Lexington received its first radio flash giving notice that Jap planes were on their way about 15 minutes before arrival. The Nipponese squadron was about 55 miles away at that time.

"The suspense was broken however when the Jap "suicide squadron" came diving out of the sun.

Newsmen Got Their Story, Pix Anyway

A News-Journal reporter and a cameraman were down at Union station yesterday to interview a Richland county sailor who was on the aircraft carrier Lexington in the Coral sea battle.

They were watching the trains for Walter F. Duncan, Lucas R. D. 1. Duncan didn't arrive, so the newsmen and Duncan's relatives left.

But the newsmen got a story about the sea battle. They ran across Walter C. Clark, Olivesburg road, just as he got off another train. Conversation developed that he, too, was on the Lexington and the interview followed. (Relatives of Duncan were notified today that he would arrive at 4:01 this afternoon.)

From there on we were too busy throwing lead to think about anything else."

"During the fight I forgot all about putting cotton in my ears" he recalled, "and as a result I was about half-deaf for a week after that."

Clark said that two Jap dive bombers tried to crash their planes on the ship but were brought down before reaching the Lexington.

"The cool calm courage was shown by everyone of the more than 2,000 officers and men on the ship," Clark went on, "both during the engagement and while the ship was being abandoned."

"We were plenty griped at the Japs for making us miss our lunch, even though we did have coffee and sandwiches brought around to our stations."

During the afternoon Clark worked with a fire-fighting squad up until the situation became so grave that orders to abandon ship were given.

In talking about the leisurely way in which the ship was abandoned Clark told how he and the other sailors "raided" the ship soda fountain eating cherry and chocolate ice cream and peanuts from their "tin hats."

"While waiting our turns to slide down the long hemp ropes into the sea we sat around the deck eating and reading comic sheets and magazines," he said.

Citing one of the many individual examples of fortitude displayed by Uncle Sam's sailors Clark told of one man who, although operated on only the day before for appendicitis, refused to leave the ship on a stretcher with the other casualties and insisted on sliding down the rope and taking his chances in the sea with the others."

He told of another sailor who had received five or six bullet wounds in his chest from a strafing Jap plane and complained because surgeons wouldn't permit him to play cards while waiting to leave the ship.

Clark said that he had been standing beside Stanley Johnston, Chicago Tribune foreign correspondent, just before they both slid down the ropes into the water. Johnston, the only American newspaperman aboard the Lexington in the Coral Sea battle, has been writing a series of stories on the engagement.

"When I left the ship," Clark said, "I got on a life raft. Several of us started to swim to a destroyer but the water was too rough and we were forced to come back to the raft."

"When we finally were picked up we climbed to the decks of the rescuing destroyer by means of a large cargo net dropped over the side of the ship."

"All I had with me when I was picked up" Clark continued, "was a pack of cigarets and a can of peanuts from the soda fountain."

"Needless to say the cigarets were ruined but the peanuts were O. K."

"We were already steaming away from the Lexington when she finally went down after dark," Clark said. "She was right on the horizon and when the final explosion came it looked like a fireworks display."

Transferred several times to other ships, Clark landed in San Diego, Cal., on June 2. He was granted a 12-day furlough early this week and arrived here by train at 5:40 yesterday afternoon. He expects to be home about four days.

"I don't have to say how glad I was to get back to the U. S. again. We stood on deck all morning of the day we landed watching for that first glimpse of American soil."

Clark who entered the navy Sept. 10, 1940, was aboard the U. S. S. West Virginia during the sneak attack at Pearl Harbor, last Dec. 7. He was transferred to the Lexington a week later.

Clark, an orphan, spent most of his life in Ashland before coming to Mansfield in 1937. He attended Ashland high school. After enlisting he received his basic training at Great Lakes, Ill., and was stationed for a time at Bremerton, Wash.

Clark just about summed up the whole story of the unshakable determination which characterizes the U. S. sailors when asked if he wanted another crack at the Japs.

"What do you mean—another crack? I've got a couple of them coming and I'm going to get them, too."

DRAWS WEEK'S SUSPENSION

Poling, Liquor Store Manager, Hit By 'Disciplinary' Move.

Suspension for one week without pay has been imposed on Frank C. Poling, manager of the state liquor store on North Park street, for "disciplinary purposes," Associated Press dispatches from Columbus said today.

The suspension was announced by the state civil service commission, which said the order had come from State Liquor Director Jacob B. Taylor. The suspension period is from June 22 to June 28. Poling had no comment today.

the two nations, but also in the provisions for "coordinated action between the two countries in the post-war period."

He stressed the fact that in his talks in Washington and London "complete understanding was reached with regard to the task of creating a second front in Europe in 1942."

In addition to ratifying the Russian-British alliance, the supreme Soviet approved the government's foreign policy. A large number of diplomats, including the Japanese ambassador, Naotake Sato, were present to hear the foreign commissar.

The occasion marked Stalin's first public appearance of the war and he received a three-minute ovation, stopped by a bell.

"I must declare," Molotov said, "that as the representative of the U. S. S. R. I was shown cordiality and exceptional hospitality both in London and in Washington. I must particularly note the personal attention given to and the most active part taken in the conversations by the president of the United States, Mr. Roosevelt, and the British prime minister, Mr. Churchill, to whom I take the opportunity of expressing my sincere gratitude."

CINCINNATI—(INS)—Mrs. Elizabeth Galinari, 76, succumbed to injuries received when she fell at her home June 10.

AXIS FORCES CUT LIBYAN COASTAL ROAD

Isolate Mediterranean Port, Force Main Empire Army To Egyptian Border.

Axis troops are "now in contact" with the fortifications of Tobruk, the communiques add.)

All doubt as to whether the British would again make a strong stand at Tobruk appeared to have been removed and Ritchie's forces there appeared to be ready for another siege, despite the fact that it will be more difficult this time to supply them by water.

"Gen. Ritchie's army is at present holding strong fortified positions on the Libyan frontier and in the Tobruk area," the communique said.

"British mobile forces operating from the south are confining enemy columns to the coastal belt."

The communique said that a British column, driving up from the south, yesterday shelled the airdrome of El Adem, south of Tobruk, in the area from which the British main forces had been compelled to retire before the striking power of the German Afrika Korps.

British troops in the Tobruk area, where empire troops in one of the most gallant stands of the war had held their ground against enemy attacks for months, destroyed three enemy tanks and damaged four others in fighting yesterday, it was added.

But the one big point in the communique was that the British empire army, in a forced withdrawal of nearly 100 miles, was back in the region of the Egyptian frontier where so many men had died in the savage fighting of previous desert campaigns.

It was known here that there was a serious threat to Tobruk, as the result of enemy penetration in an arc around it. Reports said the fortress had already come under the fire of Axis guns.

Gen Ritchie's retirement from the El Adem-Sidi Rezegh desert area inland from Tobruk had told military experts that the continued retreat to the frontier, along the Sollum-Capuzzo line, would be necessary.

It was recognized that the old defenses there were the westernmost line he could hope to hold before the powerful Axis tank columns which had pressed on relentlessly after taking Free French-held Bir Hacheim.

German Tanks Flee, Russians Claim

BULLETIN

MOSCOW—(U.P.)— Gen. Fritz Von Manstein's 11th German army of 150,000 men stepped up the fury of the frontal assaults upon besieged Sevastopol today in what appeared to be a desperate effort to take the Crimean fortress before Monday's one-year anniversary of the war in Russia.

MOSCOW—(INS)—Overcome by Soviet artillery fire, German tank detachments attacking Sevastopol turned and fled, abandoning infantry regiments to their fate, the Moscow radio announced today.

Waves of German infantry troops which had been supported by tanks and Nazi artillery were mowed down when the battered mechanized units turned tail, the announcement said. Hundreds of Germans were killed.

The German attack started out as one of the fiercest assaults yet staged against Sevastopol's mighty defenses.

A strong German thrust to smash across an important river on the Kharkov front has also been repulsed with heavy losses to the Nazis in men and material, Soviet military reports said.

Furious fighting raged in several sectors of the Kharkov front.

Failure of the second attempt by the Nazis armies to bridge a river, believed to be the Donets, cost Field Marshal Fedor Von Bock 3,000 casualties.

Report Russians Land Near Kerch

NEW YORK—(AP)—The British Broadcasting Corporation, heard by CBS, quoted German reports today that the Russians had made a landing on the Crimean coast near Kerch and that Russian marines attempted another landing near Yalta, southeast of Sevastopol.

No mention of such landings was made in German broadcasts heard in New York.

Declare Japs Mass For Siberia Drive

(By Associated Press)

High Chinese quarters declared today that Japan had massed nearly 1,000,000 troops in Manchuria and said new advices indicated that the Japanese planned to strike at Russian Siberia some time in July.

Neutral observers, however, expressed belief that Japan would not risk taking on a new enemy until Adolf Hitler had started his long-delayed grand offensive against Russia—and until she was sure that the German push was succeeding.

Russia and Japan have a five-year neutrality and "Friendship" pact, signed April 13, 1941, which so far has been observed amid warnings by Moscow and Tokyo to each other against violations.

High quarters in Chungking, Chinese war-time capital, said the Japanese general staff preferred to postpone further thrusts into the south in favor of strategy affecting territory nearer Japan.

NEAR EAST AID ... SOUGHT, REPORT

Some London Quarters Believe Churchill Asks Help For Libya and Ukraine.

because distribution of Allied personnel and material is limited by shipping space—a delay in invasion of Europe.

Important political aspects are also involved, these informants said. From the domestic standpoint, if British reverses in the Middle East continue, the Churchill government might find itself in the same disfavor as after the fall of Singapore.

In addition, it was said, the prime minister must consider American opinion, which invariably suffers an anti-British turn with every British reverse, and remaining neutrals such as Turkey and Sweden which are strategically situated.

If, however, the British could salvage the Middle Eastern campaign with American help the Churchill government, it was pointed out, could easily appease "second fronters" by filling in the period of postponement with large-scale commando raids and smashing air attacks.

The fact that the air operations soon will be reinforced by American participation would have a further good effect on the British public, according to informed sources.

Britain seized avidly on Prime Minister Churchill's spectacular transatlantic flight to the United States as evidence that definite plans for the opening of a second front in Europe in 1942 were in the making.

Asserting that only business of paramount importance could take Churchill away from London at the present time, the press declared that the prime minister's trip—his second to Washington in seven months—could have but one meaning.

"Second front talks start" was the headline with which the Daily Express greeted the news, while the Daily Mail proclaimed:

"Premier is in Washington; second front council with Roosevelt."

Eagerly the belief that big things are afoot was caught up by the man in the street, and attempts of official sources to tone down the import of the visit were quickly brushed aside.

Reddy Kilowatt Says:

You'll Be COOLER On Hot Summer Days If You COOK ELECTRICALLY

You'll be amazed at the number of different ways to use an electric roaster. It stews—it fries—it broils—it grills—it bakes.

Best of all, these hot summer days you can cook a whole meal at once. Simply put your meat, vegetables and dessert in your electric roaster together. All cook in their own juice, so they taste heavenly. Nothing ever shrinks, and you can be sure of perfect results every time. Another convenient feature is that your cooking requires no watching. Just set the heat control and the dinner cooks itself.

An electric roaster plugs in anywhere. These sizzling days you can cook out on the porch and keep cool. Or if you are planning to eat at the beach or park you can cook your dinner at home in your electric roaster and take it right along with you. The food will keep warm for several hours.

A modern, automatic electric roaster is easy to keep clean, too. Just lift out the inset pan and swish it in warm water in the kitchen sink, using a damp cloth to wipe off the grill.

For easier cooking, easier living, COOK ELECTRICALLY—the modern and inexpensive way.

REORGANIZE RATION SYSTEM IN ASHLAND

Eliminate Three of Five Volunteer Boards In County.

ASHLAND—Under reorganization of the state rationing system, the position of Newton Mansfield as county rationing co-ordinator will be abolished along with all other county rationing co-ordinators in the state. Mansfield has been county rationing co-ordinator, without pay, since the start of the OPA program.

Ashland county will be in the Cleveland district under the new district rationing plan along with Cuyahoga, Lake, Geauga, Medina, Portage, Summit, Richland, Wayne, Lorain, Erie and Huron counties.

Three of the five rationing boards, Polk, Hayesville and Polk district, will also be eliminated. Only two boards, Ashland and Loudonville, will function.

Members of the rural boards may be asked to continue to serve in advisory capacities to the two active boards. County administrators will be permitted to continue their work as salaried secretaries or as volunteer members of local rationing boards.

Bicycle Parade Revives Interest In Two-Wheelers

NEW YORK —(INS)— The fifth annual bicycle parade of the New York Wellesly club, minus most of the masquerade touches of previous years, bore witness to the growing dependency of men and women on the dependable old two-wheelers.

A glimpse into the future as well as the past was given Fifth avenue strollers recently as 75 red-cheeked and panting Wellesly alumnae and their friends emerged from Central park and cycled their way down Fifth avenue.

The parade, heretofore, reminiscent of the Gay Nineties, saw only a smattering of bustling gowns, bicycle bloomers, high-laced shoes and the enormous hats usually donned for the occasion. Women pedaled along in modern bicycling garb while their "best beaux" did their best to keep pace. Gone were the checked trousers, foreshortened derbies and handle-bar mustaches of the past.

Allied Leaders Mapping Action

AXIS PARTNERS may well wonder "what's cooking" when they learn that Great Britain's prime minister, Winston Churchill, has again journeyed to Washington for conferences with President Roosevelt, almost immediately after the secret visit of Russia's foreign commissar, V. M. Molotov, to London and Washington.

Japan, as might be expected, passes off the Churchill trip as "a political gesture," but Hitler and Mussolini may be expected to take the matter more seriously, as the plain implication, from their viewpoint, is that recent and pending conferences can mean only that United Nations movement is toward increased activity in Europe, with a strong western front becoming an imminent rather than a remote threat.

Growing strength of the Allies, in manpower and military equipment, encourages belief that the past triumphant march of the Axis nations is due to be checked soon and that the pressure on Russia will be relieved to an extent that will make it possible for Soviet armies to drive out the invaders before another winter.

There will remain, however, the unfinished business of clearing other occupied territory in Europe of the Nazi hordes, as well as turning the tide against Japan in the Far East, so that next year and the year after continue as probable war years, with requirement that the people of this country, and other United Nations, expend every ounce of energy in supporting various phases of the war effort.

Place Blame Where It Belongs

WHETHER you become peeved, irked, indignant, or boiling mad over the sugar rationing farce which Washington bureaucrats have foisted on the people of this country, do not make the mistake of blaming members of the local rationing board or the school teachers who have been burdened with this heavy and unnecessary work without getting a cent of pay for it.

This suggestion is offered for the reason that some of the rationing board members have already been subjected to scathing rebuke by at least a few persons who have even gone so far as making threats to have members "fired from the job"—which would be funny if it were not serious, as these unpaid men are giving time, energy and ability to performance of one of the most difficult and thankless tasks that has ever been devised to meet a non-existent emergency—the rationing of sugar for home use when the nation's supply is far in excess of normal requirements.

And the teachers—doing that tremendous job of carrying through a second registration "for canning purposes," at a time when they would ordinarily be enjoying a vacation—THEY ARE NOT BEING PAID FOR THIS EXACTING AND NERVE-WRACKING WORK. They are doing it "for nothing"—as an act of patriotic service. "Theirs not to reason why," theirs but to do as they are instructed by an agency of government vested with rationing authority.

Some hint of recognition that a mistake was made is seen in the ruling by the Office of Price Administration that Sugar Stamp No. 5, to be usable after June 28, will entitle holder to TWO POUNDS of sugar, to cover a four weeks period.

Ostensibly this is intended to reduce frequency of purchases but a more likely reason is that it is designed to move some of the unwieldy surplus that is crowding storage space all over the country and bringing pleas that the government finance construction of more warehouses to store the unexpected sugar surplus.

Normal consumption of sugar in the United States is estimated at 6,800,000 tons a year, without rationing. A recent survey of the supply situation shows that sugar on hand, available from domestic cane and beet crops, Cuba and other nearby sources, is more than a million tons in excess of requirements, even after allowance has been made for sugar needs of Great Britain, Canada and Russia under lend-lease and otherwise.

Sugar rationing for family uses was a mistake, and the sooner this is acknowledged by responsible authorities in Washington and the whole thing dropped, the better it will be for really essential governmental activities in which public support and co-operation are urged.

But do not blame members of the local rationing board. Write and tell it to your congressman, J. Harry McGregor, House Office Building, Washington. D. C., and to your United States senators, Robert A. Taft and Harold H. Burton, Senate Office Building, Washington, D. C.—they will know how to place your objections in the hands of the proper person or department—and some action may result.

State Employes Not Included

OHIO courts, from common pleas to supreme, are apparently in agreement that the state's maximum 48-hour work week law does not apply to employes in state institutions—which seems odd.

The state supreme court established that point this week in a case in which it was sought to compel State Welfare Director Sherwood to adhere to the 8-hour day, 48-hour week in employing institutional help. The supreme court upheld lower court decisions that the state is not bound by the law.

It is too bad that the law is so worded. It is much along the line of a father who advises his son, "You should do as I SAY, not as I DO."

Some state employes may not do 24 hours work in 48 hours—but that is beside the point.

If a 48-hour work week is a good thing to enforce on other employers requiring similar services—and that question is not being raised—it would also be a good thing for the state to conform to the same limitation for its own employes. If the law is not to that effect it should be amended.

According to a meteorologist "the perfect climate" is a myth—and absence of a comeback may be due to the fact that Florida and Southern California boosters have something else to think about just now.

Next Sunday will be observed as Father's day—and, at least for this year, he's escaping the possibility of paying for a new car that the children want to buy for him.

Half the work, money and thought used in this war could make the world an Eden, in normal times.

It may take the final crack-up to convince Laval that his job isn't what it was cracked up to be.

Still a 'Rainbow'

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

REMEMBER that old song that used to cheer us in the 20's, "Rainbow 'Round My Shoulder"?

That song of the happy-go-lucky tramp who went through the sadness and shabbiness and shock of life with a "rainbow 'round his shoulder"; it caught America's imagination. Actually, we weren't so happy-go-lucky as we tried to be. We were putting up a big front. The war was over, yes. But the poison of war still remained. We were burdened and bewildered, sick at heart. And the years that had seemed to promise so much only brought increasing adversity. Yet, as that song went carolling across the country, we tossed our troubles away and sang, "There's a rainbow 'round my shoulder."

Human beings are strange like that. They've done it before. Remember the Crusades that started in the twelfth century and did not end until the fourteenth, one of the bloodiest and most tragic chapters in all our history? For once Europe was united in one flaming desire, to save the Holy Land from the Mohammendans. England, Germany and France, they were all together then, led by the courageous, inspired Pope Innocent.

Out they went, thousands of men in steel armor with their flags blowing in a great tapestry against the sky, and their hearts armored for victory. Out they went, with "rainbows 'round their shoulders," although they faced and succumbed to death and disease too horrible to relate. But they were fighting on God's side, and there was a song in them . . . a song that conquered even the terrible quaking of fear which we all must feel.

Out they went, and after them followed the most pathetic army this world has ever known, the Children's Crusade. The children of fighting Christendom taking up their father's trail. A sheperd boy in France started it, with thousands of childish recruits at his young heels. Then came Nicolas from Cologne, a German child, with other thousands. Unguided, untrained, starving as they went, they marched to save their Savior's land.

Yet, starving, thirsty, wasted by disease, they too wore "rainbows 'round their shoulders." Over their young flesh, out of their childish hearts, rose a dream and a glory. Long since they are dead, those little ones, far from their fathers and mothers. But we need not think they died uncomforted. They had gone to serve Him who had lifted the little children in His arms so tenderly, in an age when there was slight tenderness for children. Surely He did not desert those little ones who gave their lives to serve Him.

Now, once more, the civilized nations march in a great crusade. There have been many wars between the twelfth century and the twentieth, but they were different wars. They were wars for profit and ruthless power, for a "place in the sun." But this is a war for decency. This is a war for the good things which that young Jew promised long ago, for peace and friendliness and and equal fair chance for every man and woman.

So we work and so we march today. And we don't fool ourselves about how we feel. There is no flaming pagentry in thier crusade. We know too well that war is hell and nothing else but. We also know that many of us may not survive its shock and cruelty. We know it will take a terrible toll of all that which we have held dear. And yet—

"There's a rainbow 'round our shoulder" as we go.

There's a rainbow of faith and courage which transforms shuddering men and sobbing women into armored angels, lifted above all human weakness and bewilderment.

"There's a rainbow 'round our shoulder" which makes this year 1942 the tallest and noblest adventure of all our lives. Our clothes are growing shabby and our pantry shelves are growing bare. The luxuries we cherished in the twenties—the luxuries that put spare tires on our waists and lard on our brains—are being stripped away. We are growing lean again and grim and hard. Our hearts are being broken as our boys die on nameless battlefields. Yet we are united as we never were before.

"THERE'S A RAINBOW 'ROUND OUR SHOULDER." THERE'S A GLORY SUCH AS WE NEVER KNEW BEFORE AND A SENSE OF PURPOSE. WE ARE MARCHING TO SAVE THE WORLD! WE ARE MARCHING TO SERVE GOD AND HIS PLAN FOR MAN AND WE WILL NOT FAIL.

CHIN UP! GO ON! THERE'S A RAINBOW 'ROUND YOUR SHOULDER AND IT'S FLAMING THROUGH THE DARK.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Monday, June 19, 1922.

Seventy-sixth anniversary of first passenger train entering Mansfield over newly-constructed Mansfield and Sandusky railroad. Great excitement marked arrival of first train.

D. M. Cash came from Decatur, Ill., to manage Mansfield branch of Federal Milling company.

Blecker block, northeast corner Fourth and Main, was being given a sand-blast cleaning.

Freeman Palmer, 55, died.

M. W. Mc Farland left on trip to California.

Birth report: Daughter to Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Stockwell, 11 Dunbilt court.

Miss Mary Harbaugh and Robert Dinges were married by Rev. D. G. Blair.

Paul R. Maxwell was among graduates from Kenyon college, Gambier.

TODAY IN HISTORY

June 19, 1812, marked the Declaration by Congress of the War of 1812. Of slightly more than two years duration, the conflict ended on Dec. 24, 1814. Failure of a projected invasion and post-war conditions in Europe were the primary influences causing a British desire for peace. To America the struggle brought about a much-needed national unification.

Health And Diet

Health Questions Are Answered.

—By DR. CLENDENING

Mrs. H. C.: — My family have the habit of eating oranges before going to bed at night. Friends have told me that "oranges are golden in the morning but lead at night." Please advise me if this is true.

Answer: You tell your friends to lay off the epigrams and get down to physiology. Oranges are all right morning and night.

J. C. S.: Is there any harm in taking an overdose of vitamins?

Answer: Toxic symptoms have been reported from the excessive use of vitamin D and thiamine chloride (vitamin B).

L. W.:—"What effects do sulfonamide drugs have on the health when taken over a long period of time? Woud this lead to high blood pressure?"

Answer: Sulfonamide drugs are potentially very toxic and should in no circumstances be taken over a long period of time, even in small doses. They lead to skin eruptions, liver damage and have a general effect on the nutrition and health, but I do not know that they have any effect on blood pressure.

H. E. F.: Is the use of coffee prohibited in cases of coronary thrombosis?

Answer: On the contrary, it is usually recommended.

Reader:—How many calories are in beer? How does it affect people on a diet?

Answer: A bottle of beer contains about 200 calories. Beer, on account of its alcoholic and carbohydrate content, has one of the highest caloric values of any of the beverages. As to what it does to a diet, I presume you mean a reducing diet. It blows it all to smithereens.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Eclipse of the Big Battleships Vindicates Stimson's Judgment

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Secretary of War Stimson had to wait twelve years for it to happen, but he has just won an important victory.

When he was secretary of state under Hoover, the biggest row Stimson ever had was with the admirals of the U. S. Navy. It was deep, bitter and personal.

Stimson contended that big warships were not necessarily the best type of vessel for the navy, that small, fast cruisers, able to fire at lightning speed, might be just as good, perhaps better. Stimson maintained that the admirals should experiment with different kinds of ships before they put all their eggs in the big ship basket.

Because of this argument, the late Admiral Hilary P. Jones resigned for a time from the American naval delegation at London; and a battery of admirals bombarded Stimson publicly before the senate foreign relations committee.

But Stimson won his fight—until Roosevelt entered the White House. Then the admirals rushed to the man who once was assistant secretary of the navy, and concentrated on their one great love—big warships.

Lessons of Big Battles.

THE navy's announcements of the past week, however, have supported Stimson 100 per cent. For in the battles of the Coral sea and Midway island, the navy's big warships did not fire a single shot at a Jap vessel. They did not get even remotely within range.

Everything was air power, with a few submarines also participating.

And in other theaters of war, what we have needed most is small fast cruisers and destroyers for convoy work, the type of vessel Stimson said the navy should try out exhaustively.

Meanwhile, there are indications that the big battleship advocates have been decisively defeated. Senator Brewster of Maine has reported that he understands the navy has abandoned work on five super-dreadnaughts in favor of expanding the aircraft carrier program. This is a move which has been urged by many White House advisers, who also want to see battleship steel going into merchant ships and patrol vessels which can be finished in 1942, not 1944.

A staunch advocate of the battleship who has been won over to the new strategy of naval warfare is Admiral William Leahy. One of the ablest and most forthright officers who ever bossed the fleet, Admiral Leahy has come back from Vichy to confess:

"This war has made a fool out of me. These battleships I advocated have to be wrapped up in cotton wool. The trouble with us is that our bureau of ships sees what the Japanese are building and says 'We've got to build ships to match the Japs.' Then they see what the British are building and say 'We've got to have ships like those.'

"What we really want are some far-sighted designers who will plan some ships which nobody else has—ships that combine the best features of the battleship and the airplane carrier."

Capital Chaff.

HIGH COMMISSIONER SAYRE of the Philippines has sent his resignation to the president. His letter carries a tag line that he is available for other duty. (Sayre is the son-in-law of Woodrow Wilson). . . . Undersecretary of War Patterson has drafted Herbert Bayard Swope, ex-star editor of the New York World, to advise him on public relations for the duration. . . . Jack Dempsey has resigned as undersecretary of the interior to run for governor of New Mexico. He will have the president's full support. . . . Likely successor to Dempsey as undersecretary of the interior is Mike Strauss, publicity expert for Harold Ickes—unless the White House objects to having two men from Chicago in the two top interior department positions. Usually, the Rocky Mountain states get first crack at one of these jobs. . . . To prevent sabotage, the army soon will begin fingerprinting all war plant workers—including officials of factories.

A Suggestion.

IN THE rear trunk or rumble seat of your automobile is a rubber mat used to keep suitcases from getting scratched. It is not essential to your car, yet it contains between four and seven pounds of rubber. Probably you could replace it with a piece of old carpet, or even let your suitcases ride on the bare boards.

At any rate, if everyone of the nation's 20,000,000 car owners turned in this mat, it would net around 100,000,000 pounds of rubber.

Hollywood Goes to War.

HOLLYWOOD has sent a dozen or so notable producers to the army, where they are doing interesting and sometimes valuable work. Of these, highest ranking are Jack Warner of Warner Brothers, and Darryl Zanuck, president of 20th Century-Fox.

Between these two has developed a rivalry as to who shall salute whom which threatens to put in the shade even the good old dinner-seating clash between Dolly Gann and Alice Roosevelt Longworth.

Col. Zanuck, who draws $260,000 yearly from 20th Century-Fox, got into the army first with the rank of lieutenant colonel, which nets him around $3,000. He is in the signal corps.

Then Jack Warner got into the army also as a lieutenant colonel in the air corps.

Whereupon the rivalry started. Lt. Col. Darryl Zanuck invited Maj. Gen. Dawson Olmstead, chief of the signal corps, out to Hollywood, where he gave him a big blow-out with all the stars and starlets for trimmings.

Shortly thereafter, Lt. Col. Zanuck was promoted in the signal corps to the rank of full colonel. So he sported eagles on his shoulders, whereas Lt. Col. Jack Warner had only silver leaves. Then, Col. Warner staged a big Hollywood luncheon for General "Hap" Arnold, his chief in the air corps.

And all Hollywood is waiting to see how soon Jack Warner becomes a full colonel. If and when he does, they know that Col. Darryl Zanuck will have his eyes fixed on the rank of brigadier general.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—It may be that Chic Johnson suffers from claustrophobia. . . . The dictionary defines claustrophobia as a morbid dread of confinement. . . . In any case, Chic had just added an extra 500 acres to his farm, near Carmeli, N. Y. This gives the funloving member of the firm of Olsen and Johnson close to a thousand acres. He calls it Wintergarden Farms. On it is that prize herd of cattle exhibited at the World Fair two years ago. To this have been added about 75 more milk producers. I stood in the presence of these lovely ladies of the Silo, inhaled a whiff of clover and alfalfa, and watched the milkers apply the little electrical gadgets that make milking time a scientific interlude. There were hundreds upon hundreds of quarts.

THEN we wandered over to the newly added acres, where—this will surprise you—Chic has a brand new, fully outfitted hotel. . . . This hotel has ten rooms on the second floor, each with private bath, and on the door of each room is the name of one of the shows that have made Olsen and Johnson famous characters of the theater for the last 20 years. The first door is "Sons 'O Fun"—their current opus. Across the hall is "Hellzapoppin." Down the line is "50 Million Frenchmen." . . . It goes like that . . . for ten doors.

There is, too, a new swimming pool in the Hollywood style. . . . The surrounding terrain has been lavishly landscaped. There is a new farm house, with fine underground cellars for the stores of canned foods—hundreds of jars—that are raised and put up on the place. In one low sector of the land, where natural springs burst above the surface, a small dam has been built and a little private lake has now made its appearance. There are cool cellars carved out of the hillsides, and faced with appropriate stone masonry.

AS an extra added attraction, Chic has built a miniature theater, with box office, exits, entrances, switchboards, and full-sized projection machines. The latest motion pictures are shown there at private gatherings. You can stand on the porch of the farmhouse and see a man in a tractor silhouetted against the sky . . . harrowing Chic's lands. You can stand on the edge of the swimming pool and gaze out across a lovely fruit orchard, where herds of deer come at night to steal the fruit. You can walk through the store rooms above the garage and tread on heavy bearskin rugs, trophies of the hunt. Last year Chic got three.

What's the hotel for? Just for friends. What's the swimming pool for? Just for friends. What's the soiree rooms and the theater and the bearskin rugs and the slot machines for? For friends.

Chic Johnson says he will never leave Wintergarden Farms as long as he lives. He commutes every day to the city, driving the 70 miles after the theater each night. Sometimes he turns up at 4 a. m., and superintends the milking. He has pigs, sheep, and everything but a smoke house. Maybe he will build that next. He really ought to have a smoke house, so that he can cure his own ham, and his own bacon. When I got there I thought I had surely stumbled on Shangri-La. . . . But there wasn't a single sign of Jimmy Doolittle anywhere. . . . I guess it was Wintergarden Farms after all.

LIFE'S LIKE THAT

"We're rather sentimental about it . . . we eloped with it."

Daily Bible Thought

How hardly shall they that have riches enter into the kingdom of God.—Mark 10:23.

A Farmer's Diary

A Change of Mind

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

MY NEIGHBOR who rents the farm adjoining mine, plowed the north slope for potatoes and soybeans, one snowy day last spring with his steady team of bays. I saw him there, and stopped to exchange the time of day. The horses' shiny coats were dripping from beneath and moisture ran in small streams down the rumps and dripped from nose and fetlock. The farmer's old felt hat had a bit of snow in the slot above the crown and when he leaned forward to adjust a tug icewater ran off in a torrent.

His overalls were wet and his shoes and the bottoms of his trousers were caked with mud. I imagined how uncomfortable he and his team must be, and remarked, "With a tractor, now, you'd have had this all done long ago!"

He grinned, half sheepishly, and answered, "Mebbe you know, I've got a brand new tractor down home in the shed. The owner of the farm put it there for me to use—new plows 'n everything. But I'd ruther work a team. It might take longer but it always gets well done. The team's fed and kept us all these years—just don't seem right to figure 'em out of the job. Every time I think I'll try the tractor I change my mind. The smell of horses and harness is better'n the smell of machinery—besides, tractors don't make manure, and that's what the land needs most. Dunno—I might just leave the man's tractor set, and farm with the team all summer!"

That was quite a while ago. Last week I went to see him on an errand. He was cultivating corn with the tractor. As he turned at the uneven corner and backed to reach the farthest hill, he raised each gang, balanced with springs, idled the engine slowly and with a broad smile called out to me, "What do you think of that job?"

"Fine!" said I. "You've covered every weed and only the green corn sticks up."

"I'm goin' crosswise, soon, against the hill, if the weather's clear," he said. "I've changed my mind since we talked about plowin' that day in the snowstorm. If a man has a tractor furnished him, he'd better use it. Why, I plowed this eight-acre field at a cost of less than four dollars and I can cultivate it once over for a dollar forty-five, in less'n half a day. I figure you can't afford to work a team for that."

"But what'll become of your horses?"

"They're down in the pasture enjoyin' themselves—and that's something, too. Next year, if we get a planter attachment and a mower—it'll be cheaper'n buyin' the horse drawn kind. I'm goin' to pull the hay wagon with the loader—and I figure by buildin' a broad trailer I can haul in the corn, get wood from the woods, and feed from the elevator. I can do my own buzzing."

He was as elated as a small boy with a new toy. I thought, as I drove on, that the farmer's day of primitive labor is past. The average farm is experiencing a new agriculture. How long before the horsedrawn tools will be as obsolete as the prairie schooner and the ox cart?

A Man's Woman + + +

CHAPTER X

Five o'clock. Kay busy among the tea tables, glanced at the clock. Any moment now. Who was Tally bringing to the Sweet Shop to help her enjoy the vicarious thrill which, obviously was hers over a choice tidbit of gossip —Kay Kenyon behind a counter?

Kay gave a fillip to the fresh flowers on the special table for six. What a disappointment for Tally. No shame-faced blundering servitor. "I'm not behind anything," Kay told herself. "For the first time in months I'm in the open. I'm free. I'm my own woman making my own way, mine and mothers."

It was 5:15. Could the 'phone order for a table be one of Tally's hoaxes? Perhaps she had not meant to come at all. Perhaps this was another one of Tally's notions for bedeviling those against whom she developed a grudge, real or imaginary. Mr. Lord had been pleased as punch about the special table, had told Kay to go as far as she liked on flowers, had himself instructed Susie on the polishing of silver and the selection of china.

"After the way lunch picked up looks like we have to give you your head," he told Kay. "If we can get the young folks in the habit of dropping in—you can't tell. We might turn into Somerset's social center."

If Tally Holmes had been playing one of her tricks . . .

Mr. Lord came in from the service pantry. His eye caught the still empty and conspicuous special table. He frowned.

"Er . . . . Miss Kenyon," he said to Kay, "didn't you say that table was for 5 o'clock It's a quarter after."

"Yes, Mr. Lord. Just a minute please."

Kay's anxious eyes were on the entrance through which, even now, poured a bevy of colorful and chatering femininity. In the lead was Tally Holmes, more high-pitched and raucous than she managed to be even in her most triumphant moments. The occasion was super-special even for Tally.

"If this isn't a lark!" Tally trumpeted, rushing at Kay. "Tea in a shop. Are you pouring, darling?"

Kay said, as she might have in the Kenyon home at twilight. "No Tally. I don't pour here. I work here. Your table is ready. I hope you'll like it. And thanks for coming. I was sure you'd be among the first to help me make good in my new job."

"But . . . but . . . naturally!" Tally's onslaught was weakened. She struggled for recovery.

"If you'll come this way please," Kay invited. "You didn't tell us what you'd like, but we have a selection of pastries, and the piece de resistance for this afternoon — really noble cress triangles."

Kay was aware of Elsa Kenyon. Elsa had not spoken to Kay, had given no sign of recognition. But her cheeks were stained with crimson and she was wearing Kay's garnet and old gold eardrops, great-grandmother Kenyon's wedding gift, entrusted to Kay by her father. Kay herself wore them only on rare, mostly family occasions. They were incongrous in this setting of sports clothes and forced gaiety.

Tally herded her guests to the table.

"Oh Miss," she addressed Kay, then appeared to catch herself and say prettily, "I'm sorry. I'd clean forgotten. We'll have the tea now, Kay, if you don't mind."

"Thanks," Kay said, and signaled to Bessie Munsell. Then she stepped — she was floating through air now with the greatest of ease — toward the candy counter. A man was on the buyer side of the counter, inspecting wares.

"You wanted . . . I mean . . . candy?" Where was her assurance of a second ago?

"I suppose I do. That is . . . yes . . . candy." The man was not looking into the case. He was looking straight into Kay's eyes. With that unbelievably blue look. Then he added — "I must want candy . . . I'm in a candy store."

Kay shook herself loose from the blue blur. She laughed and the man laughed too.

"I'm that fellow, Gary Fowler," he said, "the one who had to introduce himself. I hope you don't mind my barging in on you this way."

"Barging in?" Kay tried to recover her professional manner. "How could you? Candy is my— our — business. If there's something particular you've in mind."

Gary Fowler did not inspect the candy. His eyes were on Kay.

"There's nothing particular about candy," he said. "Just wrap up what you think I ought to have and that will be my . . . . candy."

Kay began packing the fresh nut brittle into a box. "It strikes me," she said, "this is a man's candy. It's crunchy and full of—"

"Vitamins?"

"Without question."

"Then let's have lots of it."

Tally's summoning call came from the tea section:

"Gary. Gary Fowler. Come here this minute. We're being bored to tears in this place. We're having tea, of all things."

Gary Fowler did not move.

"Thanks, Miss Holmes," he said. "I'm not in my tea togs. If you'll excuse me . . ."

"But we won't." Tally rushed Gary. "All the gals have been prostrate, I mean they're dying to meet you. We're going to the country club dinner and dance. It's fun. Come as you are. Gary, you aren't being stuffy—I mean in Somerset, we do as we please."

Gary Fowler said, looking at Kay, "Good news. That's what I try to do, within reason. Tonight for instance. I have some drawings to finish. I like them. So I'm skipping the country club come-as-you-are soiree, but much obliged for the bid."

"Don't be dull, my good man," Tally said. Her eyes were narrow and her nub of a mouth puckered.

Gary said, "I'm a very dull fellow. Just one of those sweaty brows who work out in the mills. Pay no attention to me, Miss Holmes."

Tally rallied.

"Why Gary," she crooned, "how could we help being interested in a new deal like you? Come on back to our table. We're giving Kay a lift. We're having tea . . . but Elsa and Eunice have flasks . . . I mean, you don't have to go Oolong."

Elsa had a flask. Kay remembered certain hysterical scenes, glazed eyes, tousled hair.

"Sorry," Gary said. "I have a rendezvous with fate. Nice gal, Fate. Ever meet her?"

"Of course I have," Tally said. "She's one of those gals who trick you, if you aren't smart enough to trick her."

Gary Fowler laughed.

"She hasn't tricked me," he said. "I've caught up with that wanton Fate . . . I hope, I hope, I hope."

Tally said, "You have a line. It's good, but not good enough. You want to get on in Somerset, don't you"

Gary said, "What do you think? I'm just a budding engineer with a hope feather in his hat."

Tally whiffed her hair in the mirror.

"You — well — you seemed to have stumbled into the wrong pew."

Gary said, "I don't stumble."

"Your candy, Mr. Fowler," Kay slid it over the counter.

"Thanks," Gary said to Kay. He tucked the box of candy under his arm. "Thanks and . . . a great day's comin'."

'FLYING COWBOY' PROVES A MATCH FOR WYOMING HORSES

(By International News Service)

WAMSUTTER, Wyo.—Herds of wild horses that once roamed at will over Wyoming's sprawling Red desert in the south central part of the state have finally met their match in speed and maneuverability—the "flying cowboy."

An airplane was recently introduced in one of the country's last big wild horse roundups to gather in the last stubborn remnants of herds that once were numbered in the thousands. For more than 70 years, the herds, led by fighting stallions, wandered the sparse land, descendants of horses left behind by railroad work crews and by strays from the Texas trail wagons. Too fleet for the mounted horse wrangler to catch, only a few of them fell under the rope and were led off to be sold.

Frank Robbins, gangling 6-foot-3-inch, weather-beaten cowpuncher and a brother of Skeeter Bill Robbins who wrote the widely sung range anthem, "Strawberry Roan," trailed the herds for years with indifferent success. This year he decided it was time for more modern methods.

Robbins called in Everett Hogan, manager of the Scottsbluff, Neb., municipal airport and operator of a flying service, and outlined to him a plan to roundup wild horses from the air.

A corral of taut cables was built in a box canyon, with the mouth of the canyon left open. While Robbins and his helping wranglers deployed nearby, Hogan was to sight the herd, haze them along for about 20 miles and drive them into the trap.

The plan worked well. Hogan, flying low over the desert, herded the horses to the corral, aided by shots from six-guns fired by Robbins' wranglers. The first roundup netted 75 horses, while the second, in which 150 wild mounts were driven to the trap, brought 27. The remainder of the herd bolted at the last minute and eluded the wranglers.

The captured wild horses brought good prices. Ranchers in Nebraska and Wyoming snapped up Robbins' catches, while others of the unbroken broncos were shipped to South Carolina planters for field work.

Hogan declared that on his flights over the desert he saw several herds of horses numbering more than 500. He said the greatest difficulty was in keeping the wild mounts bunched, as at the first sound of the airplane motor they milled about and finally broke in fright to scatter in all directions through the draws and canyons that cut the desert throughout its 75-mile extent.

Some 10,000,000 disabling injuries are suffered in accidents of all kinds in the United States each year.

'WASHINGTON' LIKE THAT,' ON NEW BOOK LIST

Author of News Letter Writes About Personalities, In Volume About Capital.

The author of the famous Kiplinger Washington News Letter makes some revealing observations about the nation's capital in "Washington Is Like That," a new book at Mansfield Public Library.

W. M. Kiplinger packs his book with sharply etched personalities and illuminates it with a recognition of what Washington means to a United States in total war. Readers will find it an important guide of the capital city today.

THIS CHEMICAL AGE by William Haynes is a fascinating book for the layman on the miracles of modern chemistry in the field of synthesis and plastics: Nylon stockings, plastic furniture, modern paint, synthetic rubber, sunthetic oil, perfume, etc.—with dramatic stories of the research, industrial developments and production involved. Colored illustrations accompany the text.

Homer Lea's prophetic book, THE VALOR OF IGNORANCE, was first published in 1909 and actually outlines Japan's plan for attacking and capturing the United States. Homer Lea spent years in China, working with Dr. Sun Yat-San for the formation of the Chinese Republic, serving as Lt. General in the army and studying Japanese strategy and plans for expansion

THE TELEPHONE BOOTH INDIAN by A. J. Liebling is a collection of articles reprinted from the New Yorker magazine—all of which add up to ten superb streamlines profiles, including those of Ray W. Howard and Olsen and Johnson. Light, amusing reading.

OTHER NON-FICTION:

CHILDREN HAVE THEIR REASONS by Washburn; DESTINY OF WESTERN MAN by Stace; VOLLEY BALL by Laveaga; BOOK OF LITTLE CRAFTS by Powers; MODERN HOMECRAFT by Raeth, MODERN INTERIORS by Genauer; CRISIS IN THE PHILIPPINES by Porter; AMERICA ORGANIZES TO WIN THE WAR; LATIN AMERICA by James; MODEL RAILROAD ENCYCLOPEDIA, 1941.

THE KING'S PASSENGER by Nathan Schachner has for its background Bacon's Rebellion, that historic uprising which marked the first revolt on this continent against oppression. All the passionate spirit of early Virginia is epitomized in Jeremy Wynne and—from the moment when the rebellious "King's passenger" lands at Jamestown, to the stirring climax in which a man and woman face a new life in a New World—Nathan Schachner unfolds the growth of our American heritage of freedom. "By the Dim Lamps" is an earlier book by the same author.

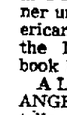
A LITTLE LOWER THAN THE ANGELS by Virginia Sorenson tells of Joseph Smith's dream city on the Mississippi—Navoo—where the Mormons tried to build a community before their long trek to Utah. But above all it tells of Mercy French Baker, who followed the Prophet because she loved one of his Saints. An epic of the early turbulent days of Mormonism—when it was being shaped under incredible hardships, courage and the two-edged visions of Joseph Smith—it is also a deeply moving story of the endurance of one woman

WIND BEFORE RAIN by John D. Weaver is the story of two young lovers from the hills of Virginia's Shenandoah Valley, whose traditional way of life yields reluctantly to change when the big factory is completed. Hobe Kelvin distrusts the new way, with its dependence on cash wages, but his dark-eyed bride is eager for the comforts and excitement of town living.

OTHER FICTION:

VALIANT DUST by MacKay; THE SMILING CORPSE by Bailey; GRINGO GOLD by Coolidge.

Most Polish schools have been requisitioned as military barracks by the Nazis.



Adolph, Benito and Hirohito —the three blind mice. Make them run with ten percent of your income in War Bonds every pay day.

Books For Children

(Available at Mansfield Public Library)

For older boys who are collecting information about the sea and the life of those who live upon it there are two new books at the library. One is a story of coastguardsmen in training and the other is a book of information about our merchant marine.

COAST GUARD CADETS, by Kensil Bell—Jim Steele was a cadet at the United States Coast Guard Academy at New London, Connecticut. His training included not only academic work but navigation, rescue work, and target practice. Jim was competing for the honor of being Number One Man in his class, which would mean early promotions after graduation from the three-year course.

YOUTH AND THE SEA, by John J. Floherty—This book is a readable description of our merchant marine, its history, its different functions, and the work of those employed in it. This book was written just before the declaration of war so its information is timely and important. The text is clarified by many pictures.

PUPILS EARNING $4,653 IN YEAR

Complete 17,786 Hours of Work Experience In City's Retail Stores.

Twenty-four Mansfield Senior high school pupils who were enrolled in the distributive education sales course earned a total of $4,653 at part-time jobs in Mansfield stores while they were learning salesmanship during the past year.

The report of earnings, submitted by Supt. of Schools W. L. Miller, showed that each pupil earned nearly $180 in 22 stores and retail establishments. All the pupils worked a total of 17,786 hours.

Twenty-six pupils started the class at the first of the year and 23 were graduated. One moved out of the city, another married and quit the class, and the third failed to complete the required work.

The course is taught by John C. Stout, and pupils gain actual experience at their jobs by working evenings and Saturdays in stores

REGULAR MEETINGS OF METHODIST CIRCLES

Four Circles Entertained With Talk, Book Review and Musical Program; Picnics Are Planned for Later.

FOUR CIRCLES of the First Methodist church held their regular meetings yesterday afternoon and made plans for future business. Mrs. W. L. Seemuth, Woodland road, was hostess for the picnic held by Circle One.

Mrs. Paul Young and Mrs. Harvey Imhoff served as associate hostesses. Twelve members and two guests, Miss Locke and Mrs. F. H. McAnally from Memphis, Tenn., were present. The business meeting was conducted by Mrs. Sam Little, president. Time and place for the next meeting will be announced.

Mrs. Edward Corwin gave a book review for the 17 members and guest, Mrs. Steele, of Circle Two. Mrs. J. C. Arbaugh, 172 Lexington avenue, was hostess and the associate hostesses were Mrs. Melvin Harrah and Mrs. Viila Adams. On July 18 a picnic has been planned for 12:30 p. m. at North Lake park.

Mrs. Fred Nixon, 42 Sturges avenue, was hostess for 17 members of Circle Three. Guests were Mrs. M. W. Manz, Jane Manz and Lynn Decker "Songs In the Night" was the devotion topic given by Mrs Weldon Close. The president, Mrs. Fred Frizell, conducted the business meeting. Mrs. L. H. Beam helped with the serving.

A musical program occupied the afternoon. Vocal duets offered by Jane and Lynn were: "O Lord, Most Holy," "Dream Song," "Nocturne," "Marche Grotesque" and 'Rustle of Spring." To conclude the meeting, the young musicians led the group in the singing of "America." Mrs Robert Campbell. Cook road, will entertain for the July 16 meeting.

Hostess to members of Circle Four at her home on Sturges avenue was Mrs. W. C. Mansfield. Mrs. Ella Frasher and Mrs. Andrew Heidinger were associate hostesses for the 19 members present. Guests were Mrs. Edith Henny of Springfield and Mrs. Harold Mansfield.

Mrs. Lola Yates was welcomed as a new member. A paper entitled "Are We Immortal" by Winifred Kirkland, was read by Mrs. G. W. DeYarmon. Refreshments were served by the hostesses. The circle will be entertained at the home of Mrs. Clyde Lantz, Lexington road, for a covered-dish dinner on July 16.

St. John's Guild Hears Speaker, Musical Solos

Forty-seven members of the St. John's Guild met Wednesday afternoon at the church for their Missionary day. Mrs. Mary Krumm read the scripture lesson and Rev. Paul H. Saleste talked on the topic, "Parents As Teachers of Religion."

For his speech he outlined the work of the summer camps and Bible schools. To help carry on this work, the group donated $20 so that more youngsters may have that sort of religious training. A reading and vocal solo were given by Gloria Sellers.

Peggy Carlisle offered a piano solo. Those on the serving committee were: Mrs. Avis Erdenberger, Mrs. Anna Fiedler and Mrs. Lena Fisher. Program chairman was Mrs. Clara Snyder. A picnic was planned for July 15 at North Lake park.

Picnic Enjoyed by Church Members

St. Paul's Thursday Nighters had a picnic supper and outing at North Lake park for their regular June meeting recently. Mrs. Harvey Lisle, of Sebring, Fla., a former member of the group was a welcome guest.

Plans were made by Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Seybold and Mr. and Mrs Peter Rebel. Following the supper, group games and contests were enjoyed. The committee for the supper meeting, July 16, is composed of the Misses Katherine Miller, Marguerite Boyer, Oscar Bollman and Robert Rhoads.

Rye Beach Party Held by Class

Twenty-six members and their families of the Esther class of the Mayflower Congregational church were entertained at Rye Beach Wednesday. Boating and swimming were enjoyed in the afternoon.

A lovely dinner and supper were served at a long table attractively descorated. Mrs. Imo Davis, 222 West Longview avenue, will be hostess for the July 8 meeting with Mrs. John Watts serving as associate.

Plans Made for Rainbow Girls

The Rainbow girls met Wednesday evening at the K. of P. hall for initiation of Rita Ann Young. Julia Ann Horst and Marie Marvicson.

Plans were made for the Grand Assembly in Toledo, June 22-24. The girls are asked to meet at the bus depot at 4:30 p. m on June 22. On July 11, a "splash party" has been arranged with the DeMolay boys. Next meeting will be July 1 in the K. of P. hall at 7 p. m.

Frocks for Hot Days Cool, Chic

By SUSAN BARDEN
International Illustrated News Writer.

"Take your sun where you find it," was the advice offered to the American woman for this her first summer when her leisure time will be at a premium.

There will be no planned vacations. Outings will be last minute forays into the country without time to do more than snatch up a bathing suit and a pair of slacks. The problem of looking cool as a breeze in sweltering city streets and offices will also have to be met, and the best way to settle both these questions is to get a wardrobe that will keep the busy woman calm, cool and collected.

At a recent fashion show clothes designed for just this type of service were shown by a Fifth avenue store.

Sharkskin, chambray, tussar, shantung, cotton tweed, linen-like rayon, organdie, pique and tie silk were very much in evidence in the collection. Country materials tailored along strictly city lines were featured, with the accent on cool colors, such as deepwater green, soft gray tans, sunny yellow and blue. Fuchsia appeared in contrast to soft blue or deep green.

Frocks Help Summer Gayety.

The three outfits shown in the above photographs were all created to make even a summer that is full of war work full of fun as well.

The play dress is one of the new peekaboo type. It is made of white pique with a sheer screen painted organdie skirt over knee-length white pique scalloped pantaloons. Worn with it is a white leghorn hat with a blue and white striped cotton crown It is ideal for country lawns and cabanas

The second dress is perfect for summer days in town. It is a one-piece red and black printed tie silk frock with a shirtwaist top, long sleeves with pearl cuff links, and a skirt with deep slit pockets and front fullness. The narrow belt is made of patent leather.

Thoughts of penthouse terraces, day-to-dark dining, gay after work parties with beaux on furlough and long cool drinks in the twilight, have inspired this clever and sophisticated short dinner dress. It is made of black chiffon with a full skirt and bodice frou-frou. A single pink silk rose is fastened at the bottom of the very low V neck. The sheer dress covers a slim-line crepe slip. A small black coronet hat completes the charming ensemble.

Mother-Daughter Banquet Held In Church Parlors

One hundred mothers and daughters were welcomed by Mrs. H. H. Carter to the banquet held in the parlors of the First Presbyterian church last evening. After the opening hymn, prayer was offered by Mrs. A. B. M. White. Toast to the daughters was given by Mrs. Charles Chew. Miss Margaret Ann Lindley responded with the toast to the mothers.

Several piano selections were rendered by Martha Shiplet and Ann Shawber. Miss Henrietta Frank was in charge of the program for the occasion. She introduced Miss Ruth Moffett, who displayed her collection of dolls, which begins with the days of Columbus, 1492, and continues through 1940. Miss Frank closed the program with a poem, "Too Tired to Pray."

Refreshments were served from a long table decorated with beautiful bouquets of mixed flowers in pastel shades. Mrs. Fred Kelley and Miss Patricia Hieber presided at the table. Hostesses were from all of the church circles.

Shower Given Thursday Night At Guest House

The Misses Marjorie June Miles, Ruby and Lucile Boyer and Ruth Aderman were hostesses for a lovely shower Thursday evening at the Colonial Guest House. The honorees were Miss Jane Stough, bride-elect of Nicholas J Marion, and Mrs. Marion Southward, the former Helen Holzmiller. The evening was spent hemming tea towels.

The honorees were the recipients of many lovely gifts from the guests and the hostesses presented each one with a wedding present.

Luncheon was served at an L-shaped table at the close of the evening. The table was decorated with bowls of pink roses and white candles in crystal candelabra. Other appointments were in pink and white.

Miss Stough and Mr. Marion will be married in an open church ceremony Saturday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock before the altar of Mayflower Congregational church. Rev. Elwyn Owen will perform the ceremony. Mrs. Southward is a bride of Saturday, June 13.

Announcement of Lesley-Growen June Wedding

Nuptial vows were exchanged Tuesday, June 16, between Miss Carol Jean Lesley of Hillsborough and Henry M. Growen of Buffalo, N. Y., at the Buffalo Bethany Evangelical and Reformed church. Mr. Growen was the German teacher at Mansfield Senior high school.

Officiating for the service was Dr. Brethauer. Attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Gerald L. Welch, sister and brother-in-law of the bridegroom. For her wedding Mrs. Growen chose a powder blue jersey ensemble with white accessories and a corsage of white sweet peas and roses. Her attendant was attired in a beige outfit, wearing a white rose corsage.

Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Growen, sr., and Mrs. Lesley were present for the occasion. After the ceremony, the couple left for Finger lakes in New York. On Monday, they will be at home in Columbus. Mr. Growen will teach for the summer session at Ohio State university and continue there this fall as he is working on his doctor's of philosophy degree.

Large Hips For Women On Black List

(MME. QUI VIVE)

No matter how much we hear about curves coming back, over-prominent hips will never be looked upon as desirable adjuncts of the female form divine. The woman who has them might just as well declare war against them and start fighting herself. If she gets an early start, victory will be hers. If adipose panniers have been with her for years she must be patient, have faith, persevere.

Her reward will be grand. She will be able to wear evening clothes that have a luscious, melting line from the point of the ribs down to the knees, a neat nip in at the waist line, a gradual curve at the hips. A charming silhouette. It is the ambition of every plumpie to "look like that." She can attain the goal. She won't have to go on a starvation diet, either.

The best means of making hips do a partial vanishing act is the rolling exercises. Fat cells don't like to be disturbed. Give them enough pressure, annoy them with enough activity, and they will swelter, melt, do a fade-away. The rolling method squashes the life out of them.

Rolling on the floor is good fun, It will amuse you, Missus Hippy, and it will amuse the family. Have a regular time for it. Ten or 15 minutes twice a day and don't cheat the clock.

All right, Here you go:

Lie flat on the floor on your back, hands straight out on a line that is level with your shoulders. Lift the right leg high, raise the right hand, roll to the left, touching the floor with the fingers and the toes. Stretch the leg as far as you can. Roll back to first position and repeat Ten times with the right leg, ten with the left, and start over again. It is the stretching of the muscles of the thigh and hip, as well as the rolling, that raises the dickens with layers of adipose tissue that are causing your mid-section to be like the spreading chestnut tree.

Victims of hippiness must keep in mind the need of erect posture. The body must be carried tall at all times if muscles are to be strong, able to ward off fat cells.

Sitting in the same position for long hours at a time will increase width amidships. Typists who are still slender should have foresight, avoid the middle-aged figure by doing exercises night and morning. A brisk walk every day is helpful, not only for figure preservation but to keep the complexion carrying the banners of youth.

If daily duties are not too strenuous it is advisable to join an evening gym class. Under supervision the right exercises will be suggested for any anatomical defect that may be present.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

As my father finished speaking he released Lillian's hand, turned to me and put his hand beneath my elbow.

"We must go now," he said. "Harry, when Miss Whitlock will permit you, tell Lillian anything I have left unsaid which it is necessary for her to know, and I will enlighten Margaret further as to my plan. Goodbye, both of you, and God bless you!"

"Goodbye," Lillian and Harry said together.

As my father hurried me out of the door Miss Whitlock rose from her seat across the hall.

"You have three minutes to spare," she said. "Thank you."

"Please let him have those three minutes for a brief talk with his wife," my father said. "I purposely saved the time for it, and there are things I wish him to tell her."

My father then went down the stairs with me, pausing outside the door of the library, where I had left Ronald.

Back to the Lansfield.

"I shall have to postpone my talk with you for an hour or two at least," he said. "Now I am going to take you and Ronald back to the Lansfield—"

"The Lansfield?" My question held distinct dread.

"Yes, the Lansfield," he said with decision. "Despite what you have discovered and what I have told you about the manager, Mr. Milner, you will be perfectly safe there.

"But I shall not be there for another hour," he went on. "I have to go back to the hideaway for a little while, then I will come up to the hotel for the night.

"Meantime, I don't think you'll lack occupation Ronald will probably keep you busy listening all the time I am gone. How did he act when you talked to him?"

Near Nervous Breakdown.

"He was quite upset and nervous, but not as much as I had feared. He was in a terrible state at his home a while ago, as I think I told you."

"You evidently know better than anybody else how to handle him," my father said. "But he acts to me as if he were on the edge of a nervous breakdown. Were you able to reassure him about Marion?"

"Yes, I think I made him see that she is in no immediate peril," I replied, "and his interview with Lillian distinctly cheered him."

"Then," my father said slowly, "I think he has received some sort of mental shock—some disquieting news, perhaps — in the last few hours; something that does not concern Marion."

"Perhaps about Carolyn," I suggested. "Yet he spoke of her very calmly, and said she was quiet up to the time he left"

"So?" my father commented. "He always has been devoted to his sister, and proud of her, hasn't he?"

"Unusually so," I told him. "Their relationship always has been beautiful."

"That probably is the answer, then," he said musingly. "He has found out something concerning her which distresses him terribly, but which he is unwilling to voice even to you. And he probably is trying to mask his distress the best he can. You have a task on your hands, my dear."

"Oh!" I said, aghast. "You want me to—"

"To get him to tell you what is troubling him," my father said firmly, as my voice trailed away. "I do not care what methods you use. I only care for results."

Love Still Causes Many Questions

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I'm 20 years old, married and have two children, a boy of three and a girl of one and a half years. My husband is never home with us but goes around with his old pals, and doesn't provide for me at all. I've lost all the love I ever had for him.

About six months ago I met another man who is a friend of my husband's. My husband really brought him to the house and now we have fallen in love with one another. What shall I do about this?

UNHAPPY.

You're in a very dangerous position, and I suggest you be careful and avoid further mistakes. Your husband neglects you, fails to provide, and brings home a friend who makes love to you. Have you ever considered that this may be a scheme to get evidence against you? I have known of similar situations where a woman lost not only her good name but the custody of her children as well.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

My sister and I would like to write to some lonely soldiers and we wonder if you can send us names and address of any known to you. It doesn't matter from what part of the country they come, or where they are at present. We just though we might write some amusing and interesting letters to help keep them happy. What do you think about this idea? M. A.

It is strictly against the policy of this column to exchange addresses or in any way act as go-between among correspondents. However, I do appreciate your willingness to help cheer up some of the lads in camps. My suggestion would be that you write to a friend of yours in camp; he may be able to give you the name and designation of one of his buddies who would be glad to hear from you. Perhaps the brother of a girl friend would help you.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I've just become engaged to a very lovely girl, but my duties as sergeant in the Army keep me away from her most of the time. I've always been able to get leave so that I could go and visit her, but at the time her birthday came around, all leave was cancelled and I couldn't go to her party.

Now she is angry and refuses to write. Someone told her I was out with another girl on that night, which she believes. This is the first time I was ever refused leave and I've written to her several times to explain this, but she just won't answer. What can I do? SERGEANT T.

My experience with army officers leads me to believe that while they are severe disciplinarians, they are at the same time very human and understanding. Why don't you go to your officer, preferably the one who refused your leave, and frankly tell him your predicament? He will write this young lady a note saying that you applied for leave and that he for such reason as he wishes to give, refused the application.

If the young lady then refuses to answer, she must have other reasons. If you don't want to go to your superior officer, my advice is to get leave and go to see the girl. If she refuses to see you, it is probable that she is no longer interested in an engagement.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

My husband has been dead five years, and now that my children are married I would like a companion. I'm in love with a man —a widower — who is about 50 years old. I am 45. His one fault is that he drinks too much, and very often gets drunk. He promises me he won't do it again, and then breaks his word. He says he loves me, but when he does things like this, I doubt it. Do you think I could be happyily married to such a man?

PERPLEXED.

I would as soon advise you to stand in the path of a locomotive as to marry a man of this type. After he had married you, he would think still less of keeping promises than he does now. Just go to a domestic relations court some day and listen to the evidence of drunkards' wives. As you value your own peace of mind, please don't marry this man.

AT CUDDY HOME.

Mrs. T. R. Cuddy, jr., entertained the L'Etude club at her home, 305 Prescott street, last night. Business session was in charge of the hostess. Mrs. Elmer Gottfried read a paper entitled "Me Togo The Termite," by Walter B Pitkin. Prizes were won by Mrs. Forrest Wright and Mrs. Richard Uhl. Next meeting will take place on July 2 at the home of Mrs. Howard Frey, Connor drive. Luncheon was served picnic style from the dining room table.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

PICK THE RIGHT TIME

On some deals, the declarer must follow the fundamental procedure of taking out the opponents' trumps first of all. On others, he must go to the other extreme and never take them out at all, using all of his own for cross-ruffing. On still others, he must do certain things first and then take out all of the trumps. Finally comes the hand on which he must do certain things first, then take out some of the trumps, but abandon leading them at a certain stage while he proceeds otherwise. In brief, he must pick the right time for leading them, if he does it at all.

South's lead of the diamond K on which dummy put a club, enabled East to make a several-sided plan when he won with the A. Before considering leading trumps, he must tentatively plan a cross-ruff, but first see if the hearts would set up. So he took the K and A of that suit, dropping the Q, and his next move became clear-cut. He took the spade A and K, then discontinued trumps, leaving the Q out to be scored whenever North felt like using an opportunity The heart J was called, for a discard of the club K, and the heart 3 was ruffed by the spade 7. The diamond 2 was ruffed by the spade 8 and the heart 7, a thirteener, led.

If North ruffed this with his high trump, or if he waited till later, it could make no difference. East already had eight tricks and retained a trump in each hand which could be scored separately for two more tricks—one of them on a club and one on a diamond—to complete the contract.

Why is a double by West not the best bridge after South opens this deal with 1-Diamond? What call would be better, and why?

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, June 20.

Adverse Lunar aspects make of this day an uncertain, vacillating and tricky state of affairs, with little accomplished because of indecisive, unstable, imaginative and erratic mental attitudes or courses of action Such condition advises against laxity or carelessness in handling all writings, correspondence, documents and affixing signatures to important papers.

Those whose birthday it is may not enjoy a prosperous or happy year, since there are indications of treacheries, fraud, unfruitful litigation, bad investments as well as dangers from travel, through agencies or carelessly executed documents or correspondence. The mind may be erratic, unstable, visionary, indecisive and the tongue sharp, witty but caustic and offensive, thereby challenging reprisals.

A child born on this day while dextrous, versatile and having certain skills may be mentally visionary, indecisive and imaginative, with keen intuitions.

Syrup-Jelly Recipe for Pie

By BETSY NEWMAN

FOR A LUSCIOUS pie for dessert to assuage our hunger for sweets, I am giving you a corn syrup and jelly recipe. Don't forget, too, that there are prepared cake mixtures on the market that don't take any sugar.

Today's Menu

Fried Fresh Fish
French Fried Potatoes
Green Peas
Mixed Green Salad
Syrup-Jelly Pie Iced Tea

Syrup-Jelly Pie

½ cup currant or other jelly or jam
⅔ cup light corn syrup
¼ teaspoon salt
3 eggs, slightly beaten
⅔ cup coarsely chopped nut meats
1 8-inch unbaked patty shell

Beat jelly (or jam) until smooth; add remaining ingredients and pour into unbaked pie shell. Bake in hot oven (450 degrees F.) 10 minutes, then moderate (350 degrees F.) for about 40 minutes, or until a knife inserted into filling comes out clean. Serves 6 to 8.

WEDDING ANNOUNCED.

At high noon on June 14, Miss Iris Ferguson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Ferguson, became the bride of Darwin Saunders of Wooster. Rev. A. J. McCreary officiated for the service. The wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Robinson, 315 Second avenue, grandparents of the bride.

HAILS BEARDS

ASTORIA, Ore. —(U.P.)— Razor blade rationing is favored by David Lewis, defense coordinator, who maintains that less shaving will make for healthier manhood.

"I have always believed men would have less sinus trouble and other ailments if they wore beards," he said. "Nature gave men that covering to protect them from the cold."

HOBBY GROWS

MATTAPOISETT, Mass.—(U.P.)— Four years ago, Mrs. James Scott became interested in bird raising while a hospital patient.

She now has more than 100 parakeets and canaries, which she has trained to do tricks, including playing on a toy piano. The latter stunt won her pet parakeet, Chrissie, a $25 prize.

The 3,885 grade-crossing accidents that took place in 1941 resulted in 310 persons killed and 1,908 injured.

American Food Prospects Continue Good

THE WAR TODAY

By DE WITT MACKENZIE
(Wide World War Analyst)

British Premier Churchill's arrival for another conference with President Roosevelt is an inspiring indication of Allied alertness and co-ordination of effort at this crucial moment when decisive military actions are on the fire.

It's natural that speculation over the opening of a second front should mushroom. This burning question undoubtedly will figure in the Roosevelt-Churchill talks, but that can't be the sole subject for consideration. There are numerous other vital problems.

For instance:

(1) China's position is probably more serious than it has been at any time since the outbreak of the Sino-Japanese war and Chungking is urging immediate Allied aid.

(2) The threat of a Japanese attack on Russia is ever present, it's materialization likely depending on a successful development of Hitler's offensive in eastern Europe.

(3) The fierce losses we inflicted on the Jap navy and air fleet at Midway and in the Coral sea, have so weakened the enemy striking power in the Pacific that a realignment of Allied strategy may now be possible.

(4) The heavy shipping losses in the Atlantic due to the unrestricted Nazi submarine campaign—certainly a matter of much concern at a time when speedy transportation of war supplies is urgent.

The foremost questions, however, revolve about that great summer offensive which Hitler is trying to bring into being, for the outcome of the war most likely hinges on that. Into this picture, of course, fits the matter of that second front—whether it is desirable or feasible at this time.

Hitler's preliminary efforts to get his big drive into full swing have been unsuccessful thanks to the Russians however, nobody is naive enough to believe that the Nazi chief has shown his full power, or anything like it. He still holds in reserve a vast army of fresh troops and mountainous material, including great air strength. All that is going to be brought into action soon, and then hell will begin to pop.

I was chatting yesterday with General H. S. Sewell, the distinguished British military expert, and he believes Hitler may be getting set to undertake a Turkish-Syrian operation.

Should such an offensive materialize it would immediately challenge all the British and American resources in the Middle East and the United States would come into the fighting in a big way, not only with our air force but undoubtedly with troops.

Nazi Marshal Rommel's offensive in Libya, headed towards Egypt and the Suez canal, would be an invaluable contribution to a Hitlerian drive through or around Turkey.

There's no doubt that the opening up of a successful second front in western Europe would ease the position in Russia and the Middle East. However, it is a terribly dangerous undertaking, and a failure would be utterly disastrous. That's why the Allied high command must know what it's doing before it jumps.

REPORT NELSON PLANS SHAKE-UP IN WPB POSTS

Senators Call For Converting 'Minds' as Well as Machines to War.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Senate defense committee members today called for changes in some of the key jobs in the War Production Board as reports circulated in congressional circles that Chairman Donald M. Nelson already has decided on a shake-up.

Sen. Harry S. Truman (D., Mo.) chairman of the defense committee, declared that while amazing strides have been made in production, some officials of the WPB are obstacles to an all-out war effort.

"We have converted the machines to all-out war, and now we have got to convert a few minds in the WPB to all-out war," he said.

A majority of the committee joined in a report criticizing the WPB for delaying industrial conversion and placed the blame largely on dollar-a-year men, although Sen. Connally (D., Tex.), a member, asserted that the report will hamper the work of Nelson.

The committee's criticism was directed chiefly at Philip D. Reed, chief of the bureau of industry branches, who also is chairman of the board of the General Electric company. The report also said that James S. Knowlson, director of the division of industry operations, temporized and delayed in shutting down civilian industries.

Reed denied that he had been slow in converting civilian industries.

Sen. Burton (R., Ohio), a committee member, commended the WPB, but said that some changes should be made.

"The War Production Board on the whole is doing an excellent job in curtailment of civilian industry accompanied by conversion which is under way," said Burton. "The rate of increase in production is highly satisfactory and Mr. Nelson and Mr. Knowlson are to be highly commended.

"However, in the light of experience there is need of some reorganization in the WPB."

Resignation of Reed was considered a possibility.

Mansfield ambulance drivers don't think much of the practical jokester who caused them considerable and needless chasing around town yesterday. Two of the ambulances received a call to South Park where the Children's theater workshop classes were in session but when the drivers found that no one there was in need of an ambulance they went on to North Lake park to see if they had been mistaken as to the address. At North Lake park, they met up with two other ambulances who had been "called out by a little girl's voice." But the only thing they found was a Sunday school picnic in session.

Y. M. C. A. officials are doing their part to keep school boys busy during the summer vacation. In addition to their recreational program they have set up an "odd job" employment bureau to provide part time work for boys from 12 to 16. Mansfielders who want someone to mow grass, pick fruit, clean lawns or perform other small jobs and errands can get immediate service by phoning Y. M. C. A. headquarters. According to Secretary Ralph B. Chapman 44 boys are registered with the bureau.

County Clerk Howard Wenning, who has had a side injury for several days, revealed today that he received a cracked rib in a recent first aid class. With W. A. Freeman as the substitute instructor, Wenning was asked to be one of the "victims" in an artificial respiration demonstration. Freeman, who didn't know his own strength (according to Wenning) shoved too hard on Wenning's side and the cracked rib resulted. While Wenning said the side pained him, he has not missed any days at the office.

College girls home for the summer and with time on their hands will put part of it to good use in civilian defense training if the OCD-Red Cross Nurses' Aid committee has its way. The next training class, designed primarily for college girls, will start July 6 instead of Saturday as previously announced and girls wanting to register are asked to communicate with Red Cross headquarters at once.

DINNER TABLE FULL DESPITE AID TO ALLIES

Survey Reveals Many Canned Foods Missing, But There's Plent of Variety.

By JAMES MARLOW AND WILLIAM PINKERTON

NEW YORK — (Wide World)—The over-all picture of Americans at the dinner table this year is good even though the United States has become a breadbasket for Great Britain and Russia.

There will be some changes in diet. There are shortages in some items now, with more expected. But Americans should have plenty to eat.

The demands on this country's food supply by its armed forces and the United States are enormous.

The government may ask Americans to eat more chickens, which are plentiful, in order to conserve other kinds of meat.

They are going to save their cooking fats which are a source of glycerine for explosives.

They probably will eat more fresh vegetables and have to cook more soup instead of buying the canned variety, at least the uncondensed kind.

They will buy in bulk more commodities that used to be bought in cans. Right now there is no hint they will be called upon voluntarily to have "wheatless" and "meatless" days, such as they had in the first World war. Sugar is rationed now. Coffee, tea, cocoa and bananas may be, because of the shipping problem.

The government has requisitioned the entire pack of canned salmon, mackerel, Maine sardines and California pilchards (large sardines.)

It may not need all of this canned fish but no decision has yet been reached on whether any will be turned back to the trade for civilian use.

This is the picture presented by the American Institute of food distribution after surveying the field.

There should be plentiful supplies of fluid milk and eggs, even though the United States is shipping great quantities of powdered milk and eggs to its Allies.

Cheese will be abundant and there should be enough fresh vegetables and butter.

Meats in general are tight now but the supply should be increased by late October, particularly pork when pigs start moving to market in a stream expected to hit an all-time high.

There is much demand for beef by the armed forces and the buying public which, with more money in its pockets, turns to blooded meat. The beef situation may improve by late fall.

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

Broadway Is a Small Town.

I will not try to pretend that there is a wood stove and a cracker barrel in the center of the Hotel Astor lobby, or that Leo Lindy leans in the doorway of his emporium each evening sucking a wisp of hay, but I will maintain that Broadway is cast in the mould and imprinted with the pattern of a small, bustling American town. It is bigger and more crowded and noisier than Three Corners or Little Falls or Wilton, Conn., but it has the same birthrate, the same deathrate, the same taxes; the same eye for a pretty girl going around the corner, the same ear for gossip.

Kilgallen

"Have you heard about—?" is just as good an opening phrase in Sardi's as in Smith's General Store. Duffy square is not as pastoral in view as the Village Green, but it is just as good a place to beef about congress, map out the war, or forecast a local elopement. Because Broadway is a very small hamlet in the Big Town.

The small-townishness shows in the chumminess of the people, in the swift exchange of items of small import, in the general nosiness of the area . . . In the sight of the "at liberty" actors pitching pennies in Shubert Alley . . . Brock Pemberton pausing to chew the fat with his fellows on 44th st. . . . Taxi-driver Thomashefsky's genial "Hi-ya, Max" to producer Max Gordon as he steps out of a theatrical office . . . and in the two dozen or more times that Georgie Price stops to say "hello" to old vaudeville friends on a brief stroll from the Palace to the Roxy.

There's nothing impersonal or big-town about the way the mail carrier stops in at Oscar Serlin's office to pass the time of day and inquire about the new productions . . . or in the way Russell Crouse hesitates at a haberdashery window to match the hue of his cravet against those on display . . . There's a touch of Grover's Corners in the way the portly David Cowles at the Penguin greets 99 per cent of his customers by their first names and inquires into the health of Aunt Mathilde or sister Minnie . . . There's real local color in the poker games presided over by Jim Moriarty at the Barberry room each Wednesday evening, and participated in by F. P. Adams, Howard Lindsay, Monty Woolley and other boys well known in the town . . . There's as much amiable gossiping and minor debating among the glamour girls at meeting of the American Theater Wing as you'll ever find at the Ladies' Aid of Ridgewood, N. J.

PREPARE FOR WAGE INCREASE

Steel Industry Leaders See $200,000,000 Boost Approved by WLB.

(By Associated Press)

PITTSBURGH—Leaders in the steel industry are "steeling" themselves for a general wage increase which some estimate will amount to almost $200,000,000 a year and become effective within 60 to 90 days.

Nearly all executives with whom the situation was discussed today said they believed the war board would grant a substantial pay boost in the pending "Little Steel' case and that it "will have to be accepted" by the entire industry.

The CIO United Steel Workers of America asked for a $1 a day increase and a union shop agreement from the "Little Steel" group of Bethlehem, Republic, Inland Steel and the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company.

The board's fact-finding panel last week submitted a draft of its preliminary finding to the litigants and they rebutted in Washington on Tuesday.

Informed sources said the finding suggested the union was entitled to the boost because the cost of living had increased 12½ per cent and more in steel towns since the last 10 cents an hour increase more than a year ago.

The panel will submit its final report June 25 and the board will start a public hearing on June 29.

An increase of $1 a day or 12½ cents an hour would amount to about $165,000,00 a year based on the industry's current payroll of approximately 650,000 workers, with overtime rates adding more. The present minimum wage is 72½ cents an hour.

Steel men said the government, indirectly, would pay for most of this increase in diminished returns from the corporation's excess profits taxes.

DIES IN HOTEL

Franklin Zehner, 72, Had Left Ashland For Ball Game.

ASHLAND — A life-long resident of Ashland, Franklin Zehner, 72, a butcher here for the past 38 years, was found dead in a Cleveland hotel room yesterday.

Cuyahoga County Coroner S. R. Gerber, said he died of a heart ailment. Zehner had gone to Cleveland to attend the Cleveland-Washington baseball game. Hotel officials said he was ill when he registered shortly before noon.

Surviving are his widow, Emma, two sons, George H., of Ashland, and Willard S. of near Mansfield; four grandchildren and four great grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 3 p. m. Saturday at the home. Rev. F. L. Hicks, pastor of the Methodist church, of which he was a member, will officiate. Burial will be in Ashland cemetery.

Dutch Queen and Yugoslav King to Visit U. S. Soon

WASHINGTON —(INS)— Plans were being completed today for the arrival in the United States shortly of Queen Wilhelmina of The Netherlands and young King Peter of Yugoslavia.

The queen, who arrived in Canada yesterday after a flight across the North Atlantic from England, is expected to visit President and Mrs. Roosevelt at the White House within the next week or 10 days and then go to Stockbridge, Mass., where she plans to spend the summer.

The elderly queen's visit to the United States is a private one, but that of King Peter will be a state affair. The youthful monarch also will arrive from England.

Purpose of the young king's state visit to this country is to seek unity among Serbs and Croats living in the United States, and to insure American sympathy and support for the restoration of his kingdom when the Axis has been defeated.

WPB FINDS ALUMINUM CAMPAIGN FAILED TO HIT HALFWAY MARK

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — In the midst of the government's campaign to salvage scrap rubber, war production board officials discovered today that the famous "pots-and-pans" aluminum collection drive last year turned up less than half of the metal they had expected.

For months, it was learned, WPB has been attempting to obtain conclusive and final reports on success or failure of the one-week aluminum campaign last July. Finally, what amounted to an official investigation was undertaken and a complete statistical report prepared.

The report, it was understood, showed that a total of about 11,200,000 pounds of aluminum and other scrap were collected—compared with the 20,000,000 pounds which had been predicted. Of this scrap, only 6,400,000 pounds was in the form of aluminum, contrasted with a $15,000,000 pound forecast.

Of the scrap obtained, about 5,700,000 pounds of aluminum ingot actually has been sold to the RFC Metals Reserve company, for resale to war industries and use in war production.

Informed officials listed these faults in the drive:

Shipping delays which kept scrap from aluminum smelters until late in April;

Tendency of some dealers to delay smelting in the interests of "regular business";

Elimination of junk dealers as intermediaries in the drive;

Lack of adequate transportation facilities;

Failure of local chairmen to assume responsibility for moving scrap and neglect in notifying WPB officials of delays in smelting.

FORMING NEW CUBAN CABINET

Batista Expected to Announce Names Today.

HAVANA—(U.P.)—President Fulgencio Batista was expected to announce a new cabinet today, replacing the one headed by Prime Minister Carlos Saladrigas which resigned yesterday.

Saladrigas, who was expected to be reappointed, said he had resigned "in order to permit Gen. Batista to form a new cabinet."

His administration had been criticised for its war policy and reliable sources said Batista requested its resignation because "his patience was exhausted."

MERCHANTS TO HOLD OUTING

Retailers Hold Annual Good Will Outing at Weller High.

Continuing a custom started years ago, the Retail Merchants association will stage its 16th annual good will dinner next Wednesday, at Weller township high school, near Olivesburg.

As in the past, a kittenball game between picked teams will precede the dinner. The ball game is scheduled for 6 p. m., and the dinner, to be served by the women of the Franklin Methodist church, at 7.

Gilmore Hiett, advertising manager of The News-Journal is chairman of the event. Members of the merchants association, their wives and employes will attend.

COUPLE ROBBED

CLEVELAND — (U.P.) — Mrs. Bernice Carter, 40, an Amherst widow, and Alden Heston, 31, Elyria, reported to police that they were abducted by two men at Elyria early today, robbed and forced out of the car on Cleveland's southwest side.

The robbers entered the car in Elyria when Heston stopped at a traffic light. Mrs. Carter was robbed of $6 and a diamond ring. A wrist watch was taken from her companion.

West Coast Cases Test Validity of Jap Exclusion Act

SAN FRANCISCO — (INS) — Two cases designed to test the constitutionality of different phases of the Japanese exclusion act were taken under advisement today in two principal west coast cities.

In San Francisco, a challenge to the army's exclusion of American-born Japanese from Pacific coast military areas was launched by an attorney for the American Civil Liberties union.

The attorney, Ernest Besig, posted $1,000 bail for the release of Fred Korenatsu, 23, who was arrested at San Leandro, Cal., for violation of the order.

At the same time, Federal Judge James A. Fee in Portland, Ore., took under consideration the case of Minoru Yasui, 26-year-old lawyer of Japanese ancestry, who is charged with violation of the alien curfew law.

The day after the curfew was imposed, Yasui walked into a Portland police station and asked to be arrested so he could test the law's validity.

State Publinks Golf Tournament for 1942 Cancelled

Sport Podge by REX HESS

"Who's going to run all these leagues around here after we go away?" Joe Lesch was asking yesterday. Joe was talking about himself and Don Cram, Y. M. C. A. physical director. Both of them are due to leave Saturday for army service.

For several years now Don and Joe have been operating Mansfield's softball leagues, and Joe has been running the City "A" basketball circuit.

What the town's going to do without them I wouldn't know.

* * *

"How about you running the basketball league next winter?" Joe asked me.

"Oh, no," I told him. "That looks like too big of a headache for me."

"It's a headache I've been having for several seasons, and I would gladly pass it on to you," says Joe.

* * *

Now there's a pal for you. Nursing a headache for years and years just to hand it on to me.

So I told him no, but if there's no one else around to operate the league next winter I suppose I'll have to do it.

Be patriotic and keep sports going, they tell us, and if that's one way of winning the war we'll keep 'em going. If guys like Joe and Don can spend their time shooting Japs, guys like you and me ought to be able to keep their good work going on at home while they're away.

So if we can find enough young boys around to shoot a few bucketballs next winter we'll have a league.

Another boy you used to know real well is in the army now. That's Alex Clowson, manager of last summer's Mansfield Braves.

Al is playing ball with Chuck Cronin, last year's Fostoria manager, on the Camp Perry team.

They didn't get along too well last summer, Al and Chuck, but now that they're on the same team they probably will.

* * *

Oh yes, remind me to tell you before the summer's over that Dick Morse, Braves third sacker of last year, isn't playing with Tiffin of the Ohio State semi-pro league any more. Dick was with Tiffin for the first three games, all of which they lost, but after he left, Tiffin won seven straight games. I hope the Tiffinites don't blame the poor start on Dick.

Pitchers Forced To Carry Load

(By Associated Press)

The pitchers may have to carry the load for Milwaukee's battered Brewers until Manager Charley Grimm's many cripples rejoin the fold.

Walter Lanfranconi tried it last night, even got the benefit of an early 3-0 lead, but he weakened at the finish and Columbus carried off a 4-3 decision when the Brewers offered no other threat than their second inning uprising.

* * *

The setback, coupled with Kansas City's 7 to 5 victory over Toledo, left Milwaukee with a scant half-game lead over the ever challenging Blues.

Indianapolis snapped a losing streak at six by defeating St. Paul, 2-0, in the second half of a double header. St. Paul won the opener, also a shutout, 4-0.

Weather interfered with the Minneapolis game at Louisville.

Dodgers And Cards Have Feud

Free-For-All Scrap Enlivens Ball Game.

By JUDSON BAILEY
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

BASEBALL'S fiercest feud in many seasons—the two-year-old rhubarb of the rowdy Brooklyn Dodgers and the scrapping St. Louis Cardinals—has broken out again.

St. Louis came steaming into Ebbets Field last night with a seven-game winning streak and visions of shaving down the Dodgers' 4½ game National League lead during their crucial five-game series.

* * *

But the Dodgers diverted the Redbirds' attention with a free-for-all at second base in the sixth inning and sneaked off with a 5-2 victory that eventually may prove one of the most vital of the season.

* * *

The diversion as brought about by Joe Medwick's high slide into the Cards' Frank Crespi at second base. The Brooklyn and Cardinal squads swarmed onto the field and the feud was on again.

The game was a twilight-night affair arranged as a substitute for the originally scheduled night game which was banned by coastal dimout regulations. Two innings were played by sunlight and then the floodlights were turned on.

This was the only contest carded in the senior circuit and only three games were played in the American League.

The Detroit Tigers tumbled the New York Yankees again 3-1 on the four-hit hurling of Virgil (Fire) Trucks. This gave Detroit the series, three games out of four, and also gave the Tigers an edge in their season's rivalry with the champions, six victories to four defeats.

Early Wynn's seven-hit pitching and the lusty hitting of his battery-mate, Jake Early, provided the Washington Senators a 7-1 verdict over the Cleveland Indians. Catcher Early drove in four runs with a double and two singles.

* * *

The Chicago White Sox exchanged positions with the Philadelphia Athletics again by winning 7-2 on the five-hit hurling of Buck Ross and Joe Haynes, who worked the last inning. Ross allowed just two hits till the eighth.

Army Reserves Joe's Talents

Louis Does All His Fighting In Uniform.

NEW YORK—(AP)—The fighting talents of Corp. Joe Louis will be reserved for the army, at least until he completed his basic military training and possibly until a victory is won in the scrap that is neither bounded by ropes nor governed by the Marquis of Queensbury rules.

* * *

Secretary of War Stimson stepped into the ring picture yesterday and announced that Louis had been ordered to a training center to finish his course in soldiering, spiking all talk of a possible title fight this summer.

* * *

And for the army information service of the 2nd Corps area came an announcement that the champion had been ordered transferred to Fort Riley, Kas., one of the leading cavalry training centers.

"Presumably," said Stimson, the question of a championship bout will be considered when Joe finishes this stage of his training.

OHIO U. BOBCATS USE FRESHMEN

ATHENS — (U.P.) — Freshmen will be eligible to participate in all intercollegiate sports at Ohio university next school year, Athletic Director Don C. Peden announced today.

The Bobcats will play the following football schedule next fall: Sept. 28, Western Kentucky at Athens; Oct. 3, Akron at Athens; Oct. 10, Butler at Athens; Oct. 17, at Cincinnati; Oct. 24, Ohio Wesleyan at Athens; Oct. 31, at Miami; Nov. 7, Western Reserve at Cleveland; Nov. 14, Xavier at Athens; Nov. 28 (Thanksgiving) at Dayton.

Saves Hurlers For Yankees

Bouldreau Juggles His Pitching Staff.

CLEVELAND —(AP)— Manager Lou Boudreau has juggled the Indian pitching staff so that his four most effective starters at the moment are ready for the New York Yankees, who open a four-game stand here tonight.

* * *

The Indians split their two-game series with Washington by dropping yesterday's game 7 to 1, but they have a seven-two advantage for the season over the Senators whereas they are on the short end of a four-two rating with the Yankees.

Boudreau's plans call for Mel Harder to hurl tonight, with Lefty Gomez on the hill for the visitors.

Al Smith, whose record of four victories and five defeats is the same as Harder's, will work tomorrow afternoon. For Sunday's double header Boudreau has named Dean, a five and two winner, and Rookie Red Embree, victor in two of his four starts. All the games will be in the lakefront stadium.

Pitching was the big difference in yesterday's game. Senator Early Wynn scattered seven Tribal hits and allowed one run in the seventh.

* * *

Meanwhile the Nats pounded five hits and five runs off Vernon Kennedy, who was charged with the loss, and six more hits and two tallies off Harry Eisenstat and Steve Gromek.

Washingtoin's Catcher Jake Early collected a double and two singles to drive in a quartet of runs in four trips to the plate.

DAYTON—(AP)—Dayton hopped from fifth to third place in the Mid-Atlantic league last night, downing Zanesville 3-2 and 7-4 in a double header, while second-place Erie gained half a game on top-notch Charleston.

Erie won a 13 to 8 slugfest from Canton to move within a game and a half of Charleston, which divided a doubleheader with Springfield, the Senators taking the opener 2 to 0 and Springfield the nightcap 3-1.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK—(Wide World)—Mel Ott calls the Cards' Morton Cooper baseball's best pitcher, but Billy Southworth is high on his brother Walker. Billy says he's the best catcher active in the game today. . . . Winners in the army emergency relief swimming meet at Lido Beach, Long Island, Sunday will be rewarded with certificates which can be exchanged for medals after the war. . . . Another sports tradition has gone up in smoke: Racing in "dashes" and pari-mutuel betting, both despised by old timers in harness racing, are carrying the sport since the army almost wrecked the Grand Circuit by taking over several tracks. . . . Saratoga Raceway, running 63 nights, will put on the rich Fox Stake; Buffalo Raceway has some 400 horses on hand and Long Island's Roosevelt Raceway is expecting so many that stables have been borrowed from the Mineola fair and the Meadow Brook club.

Byrd's Clubs Ruled Out

Then Sammy Shoots 72 With Borrowed Sticks.

By GAYLE TALBOT

CHICAGO — (AP) — The only thing that possibly could create any excitement in the second round of the Hale America golf tournament today would be for one of the leaders to shoot a 61 and then be disqualified because he was caught using a putter off the tees.

Everything else happened yesterday, leaving the crowds that surged over the Ridgemoor club course somewhat surfeited with under-par golf and sideshow amusements.

Sammy Byrd, the ex-ball player, whose clubs were ruled out as too grooved, played with a borrowed set, so mad he could shoot no better than a par 72.

* * *

Jimmy Thomson, known as the longest driver in the business and perhaps the most erratic with his irons, won both the driving and the approaching contests, the latter to his own complete astonishment.

And 63 players of a total entry of 96 either equalled or beat the tar out of Ridgemoor's official par. Seldom has golf seen a shooting match to equal it.

Leading the field at the first turn in the big charity event were Otey Crisman, a pint-size pro from Alabama, and Mike Turnesa, each with a 65.

Otey is in the tournament because he won a coin toss against another Alabamian who tied with him in their district qualifying test. He felt lucky to get here at all, and was practically speechless when they finished counting up his card. He played beautiful, nearly flawless golf.

Mike Turnesa is a brother of Corporal Jim Turnesa, who reached the final of the recent P. G. A. championship at Atlantic City.

Crisman, who runs a 9-hole course in Selma, Ala., came in early with his 34-31—65 to set a target for his more famous rivals to shoot at. They shot all around it, bombarding the scoreboard with batches of 67's, 68's and 69's, but it was not until the tag end of the round that Turnesa turned up with an identical 34-31 to share the spotlight.

* * *

A score or more of the game's greatest shooters were right on their heels. All the top men were within easy striking distance.

There were five at 67—Lawson Little, Harry Cooper, Lloyd Mangrum, Mike Sipula and Al Brosch. Six were deadlocked at 68—Dick Metz, Herman Barron, Jimmy Demaret, Horton Smith, George Schneiter and Wilford Wehrle, the amateur star.

The 10 backseated at 69 included Byron Nelson, Willie Goggin, Ed Dudley, Denny Shute and Ky Laffoon, Ben Hogan, Henry Picard, Paul Runyan and Craig Wood, the open champion, were among the 15 who shot par 72. It was a tightly bunched field, in full cry after the leaders.

BOUT CANCELLED.

PITTSBURGH—(INS)—The United States navy has decided that Gus Lesnevich, light-heavyweight boxing champion, is more necessary in the uniform of the U. S. coast guard than in boxing togs and as a result his scheduled championship fight with Mose Brown, McKeesport negro, on June 29, has been cancelled.

TOURNEY HELD

YOUNGSTOWN—(AP)— Youngstown players swept the Ohio Elks golf championship at the Tippecanoe Country club yesterday. Christy Deibel posted 79 to pace a field of 130 with another Youngstowner, John Ranz, second on an 81 total. Ralph Riley of Akron was third with 82. Ranz and Deibel teamed with Dr. W. A. Welsh, who had 83, and Fred Capp, with 85, to give Youngstown's No. 1 team that event on a 328 total.

INJURIES KEEP HER FROM TITLE DEFENSE

CHICAGO — (INS) — Injuries suffered in an auto accident will keep Patty Berg on the sidelines next week when her title goes on the block in the women's Western Open Golf championship, it was disclosed today as an advance entry of 104 players was posted.

The Minneapolis linkster, now classified as a professional, is still under treatment for injuries sustained last winter, but is expected to join the gallery next week at the Elmhurst Country club.

Track Stars Meet In A.A.U.

New York Gets Meet First Time Since 1908.

NEW YORK—(AP)—New York's greatest collection of track and field stars since the Olympic tryouts at Triborough stadium in 1936 took over that same arena on Randall Island today for the start of the 56th annual National A. A. U. championships.

Held in the nation's largest city for the first time since 1908, the meet has attracted virtually every track athlete of consequence, including 16 of last year's individual champions and all the recently crowned national collegiate titleholders.

* * *

The New York Athletic club, winner of the team title six times in the last ten years, has entered a squad of 49 and is rated a strong threat to the three-year reign of the San Francisco Olympic club, which is defending its championship with 16 men.

* * *

The sure winner, however, is army emergency relief, scheduled to receive at least $75,000 from gate receipts and program advertising.

A notable absentee is Barney Ewell, 100-meter champion in 1941, who was forced out by an injury he suffered in the N. C. A. A. meet.

Today's program calls for the 21 events in the junior division, open to those who never have won a National A. A. U., IC4A or N. C. A. A. title, in addition to the 10,000-meter run and the 3,000-meter walk in the senior division.

PACE TOURNEY.

ST. LOUIS—(U.P.)—Billy Talbert of Cincinnati and Bill Reedy, Beverly Hills, Cal., paced the favorites into the doubles quarter-finals of the National Clay Court Tennis championships today after a 6-3, 6-0 win over Alan Richardson and Bill Schrock, St. Louis.

Thelma Linster Keeps Cup

Women's Trophy Stays Here Until After War.

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS — (AP) — The Ohio Public Links Golf association cancelled its 1942 state championship tournament for men and women today—and probably will not resume the title events until after the war.

Ray Pennell of Columbus, executive secretary of the association, said the 17th annual championship events had been called off because of the national emergency. Both tournaments were scheduled Aug. 8 and 9 at the Heatherdowns courses in Toledo.

* * *

"We'll be back after the war is won," he said, "but until then the state titles will remain with Dick Rhyan of Columbus and Thelma Linster of Mansfield.

* * *

"After an exhaustive survey," Pennell continued, "we found that more than 40 per cent of the players who have appeared in our last three tournaments are now in the armed services, while more than another 30 per cent are working in war industry."

Many players now in war industry, said Pennell, are working 10 to 12 hours a day, and some of them six or seven days a week. Such schedules ban participation even in a one-day tournament.

"All our prizes have been in war bonds and stamps," he said, "but there is no need for the total amount going into the war effort being cut because of cancellation of the tournaments. I am asking each of the boys and girls who would have participated, and all those whose working schedules would have kept them away, to use the $5 entry fee for the purchase of war stamps. In that way they'll be getting into a much bigger competition than a golf tournament."

Pennell said he had checked with executive committeemen in all sections of the state, and found that only 30 or 35 of the 115 who participated last year in the men's tournament could possibly participate this year.

PREPARE FOR GAME

Brushing up for their U. S. O. benefit ball game against the Mansfield Travellers Sunday afternoon at Liberty park, the Mansfield Athletic Supply will practice this evening at 5:30, and tomorrow at 2 p. m.

THREE DAMAGE SUITS SETTLED

Actions Resulting From Auto Accidents Dismissed After Litigants Agree.

Three personal injury actions for a total of $22,500, involving two traffic accidents in the Mansfield area, had been settled out of court today and dismissed by the plaintiffs. Amounts obtained in the settlements were not revealed.

Two of the actions were against George W. Maxwell of Mansfield as a result of an accident last Dec. 10 at Marion avenue and Woodhill road in which Mrs. Herbert E. Rupp, Mansfield, was injured. Mrs. Rupp was plaintiff in one of the suits for $10,000 and her husband filed the second for $7,563. The law firm of Henkel and Gongwer represented the plaintiffs in both actions.

Also settled and dismissed was a $5,000 action against the Peter Pan Cleaners and Dyers, Inc., resulting from an accident last Jan. 10 at Park avenue east and Bushnell street. Lille Carroll, Mansfield, was the plaintiff. She was represented by Attorneys Francis R. O'Brien and Earl P. Gaar.

STAR ORGANIST

CHICAGO—(U.P.)—Chanute Field soldiers hear top-flight organ music at chapel service. It's played by one of their buddies, Pvt. Bob Shepfer, 22, of Defiance, O.

Private Shepfer became a church organist at 13 and last year gave a recital in Carnegie Hall, Pittsburgh. He was studying music at Wittenberg college when he enlisted in January.

LIKES PARTIES

NORWOOD, Mass.—(U.P.)—Still spry at 92, Mrs. Emma Ellis tops off a busy day of housework and crocheting by practicing on the piano. Mrs. Ellis, who lives alone in a two-room apartment, retires at 1 a. m. and gets up at 6 a. m. and attends parties with friends every night except Tuesday.

July 13 Last Day To Register for August Primaries

Mansfield residents who want to vote in the Aug. 11 primary must be properly registered with the county election board by July 13, Clerk Philip Wolfe warned today.

The board is receiving new registrations and transfers at its headquarters in the courthouse basement daily except Sunday. The office closes at noon Saturday.

Former voters who have failed to cast ballots at the last two general elections or have moved since voting last must re-register.

Residents of the city who will reach 21 on or before the primary must register as must women who have changed their names by marriage since the last election. Others who are required to register are new citizens, those who recently obtained their naturalization papers.

SOME TIRES

MIDLAND, O.—(U.P.)—Tire and gasoline rationing didn't stop C. M. Vickers from buying the 28th set of new license tags for his automobile.

The roadster, purchased in 1915 for $440, is running on tires 10 years old—and the treads still are in excellent condition. Vickers has never driven the car more than 50 miles from his Clinton county home.

Here's a sensible way

TO GET OUT OF DEBT

You may wonder how you can get out of debt now, when you haven't been able to before. The answer lies in getting a cash loan from Personal.

With this money you'll be able to pay off your debts at once. Then you repay Personal in monthly amounts you can afford.

This doesn't put you deeper into debt. It simply adjusts to a cash basis the debts you already have.

Personal makes loans on signature, fuurniture, or auto, to men and women, single or married, employed on either a new job or an old one. Sensible monthly payments:

$10.05 a month repays a $100 loan in 12 months

We don't believe that folks should borrow unless a loan is the best solution to their problem. If it is, and you need $10 to $250 or more, come in or phone.

ISSUES REPORT ON DRIVE FOR METALS, RUBBER

State Shows County Behind But Data Fails to Include Industry Collection.

Results of scrap collection among Ohio counties were listed today by the general salvage division in the War Production Board's bureau of industrial conservation at Columbus in a report which placed Richland county far down the list in amount of scrap collected.

However, it was learned here that the Columbus figures do not include the figures for the heavy collection in the "scrap within industry" drive made in this area by the Manufacturers club of the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce. These results were reported directly to the WPB regional office in Detroit, rather than to Columbus.

This collection is being made among the 130 industrial plants in Mansfield, Richland county, and adjoining counties. The drive, which covers the area south to and including Mt. Vernon, east to Ashland, west to Bucyrus, and north to Plymouth, has netted the following totals in less than five weeks:

Scrap metal—3,797,167 pounds; scrap paper—308,000 pounds; rags and miscellaneous items—210,000 pounds; and rubber — 158,000 pounds.

The Columbus report listed Richland county results as follows:

Metal—29,000 pounds; rubber—100 pounds; rags—none; paper—263,400 pounds.

Reports listed for several other counties were as follows:

Crawford county: metal—3,166,000 pounds; rubber — 69,000 pounds; rags — 50,000 pounds; paper—486,000 pounds; Ashland: metal—268,000 pounds; rubber—4,925 pounds; rags—3,000 pounds; paper—80,000 pounds.

The report also obviously does not include the scrap metal collection conducted in Richland county by the American Legion committee headed by Glenn W. Marriott, in which more than 100 tons were collected.

The average depth of the ocean below sea level is 12,450 feet.

LOSES WALLET

WILLOWS, Ga. —(U.P.)— To advertise a picture playing at the theater he manages, Lloyd (Doc) Phipps set out to drop 25 old wallets on the streets.

Each wallet contained a letter good for two free tickets to the show. But Phipps dropped 26 instead of 25 wallets. The 26th was his own, containing not only his driver's license and credit cards, but $10 in cash as well.

Phipps' wallet was not among those returned.

All year 'round the Army Gets MEAT

TYPICAL ARMY MEAL

America's men in uniform eat better than any other armed forces in the world. Here is a typical "weekday" dinner just as it is served at army camps. Note generous slices of good roast pork, centerpiece of a completely balanced meal, which includes sweet potatoes, spinach, lettuce, tomatoes, bread, butter, apple pie à-la-mode and coffee.

When the bugle blows "Mess" the U. S. Army eats.

So do the Navy and Marine Corps!

Experts have carefully balanced their meals with everything needed for adequate nutrition, including meat in liberal amounts.

Not at just one season, but all the year 'round—summer and winter.

Every day's rations in the army, including special rations, contain meat, except emergency Field Ration D (the chocolate bar).

MEAT is not included in army rations by mere accident, but represents years of experience in troop feeding by the Quartermaster Corps.

Liberal meat rations are maintained, in summer as in winter. The army knows that nutritional needs don't go on vacation in warm weather.

Women feeding their "men at work" this all-important summer may well take a tip from army meal planners—they know.

The rays of the summer sun will provide you with more vitamin D—but will not compensate for an otherwise unbalanced or insufficient diet.

Your family as well as the army needs a regular daily restocking of proteins, B vitamins and minerals (iron, copper and phosphorus), even when the mercury rises.

Meat provides these nutritional essentials in liberal amounts.

Ask your meat-man about summer meat ideas—you will find he has many thrifty suggestions among them.

THEATERS

Romantic Musical.

Rita Hayworth, one of the screen's No. 1 glamour girls, is the chief charmer in "My Gal Sal," the musical spectacle in technicolor opening Saturday at the Ohio. The ravishing red-head plays the inspiration in the life of a young American composer who travels the tortuous road to success via the medicine show route. The picture takes its name from the song of Paul Dresser and the story itself is based on Dresser's life. Victor Mature has the role of the composer and the cast includes John Sutton, Walter Catlett and Carole Landis.

Tropical Comedy.

Charles Laughton brings another of his happy-go-lucky tropical portraits to the Madison screen Saturday in "The Tuttles of Tahati." As an irresponsible old reprobate who places his confidence in fighting cocks as a means of livelihood Laughton is supported by Florence Bates, Jon Hall and Peggy Drake. A large cast of Polynesians plus Tahatian music give authentic color to the film. Lum and Abner are teamed in the second picture, "The Bashful Bachelor" with Zazu Pitts.

Screen Frolic.

The screwball comics, Olsen and Johnson, are now frolicking on the Ritz theater screen in "Hellzapoppin'," the film adaptation of their stage circus by the same name. Mischa Auer, Jane Frazee, Robert Paige and Martha Raye are in the cast and the picture features a water ballet and a group of eight colored dancers. "The Congeroos," billed as "human dynamite." Bruce Cabot and Constance Bennett are paired in the second picture, "Will Bill Hickok Rides."

Comedy Romance.

Comedy, music and romance are combined in the Park attraction, "Moonlight Masquerade," with Jane Frazee and Dennis O'Keefe. The plot concerns a trick will that provides a fortune to two young people in the event they marry in a specified time. Since the two have never met they decide to outwit each other and claim the entire inheritance. Tim Holt is starred in "Cyclone On Horseback," with Marjorie Reynolds and "Lasses" White.

1—Death Notices

MAMBER

George A., 69, passed away Thursday at his home, 315 Hammond avenue, after an illness of two months. The body was removed to the Wappner Funeral Home where friends will be received. Services will be conducted Saturday afternoon, 2:30 o'clock with Rev. Grover E. Swoyer officiating. Burial will be made in Memorial Park. (Wappner Funeral Directors). (L-1x)

2—Card of Thanks

WITH REGARD TO A CARD OF THANKS

Very often a Card of Thanks in The News-Journal meets a need which can hardly be solved in any other way. Not only is it a gracious expression of gratitude to those who have sent floral tributes, but also courteously acknowledges the service and kindness of the many to whom a personal note of thanks cannot well be mailed, or whose names or addresses are not known.

A "Card of Thanks" can now be arranged by telephone: Dial 4251-6, ask for Miss Lane or Miss Stone, either will be glad to render whatever service and advice you need.

'WAR SERIAL'

LEWES, Del.—(U.P.)—For Henry W. Ennis, Lewes' oldest resident, who recently celebrated his 92nd birthday, the Civil war, with all its battles fought on U. S. soil, is still the most vivid.

"The present war seems more like a radio serial to me," says Ennis, who was born near Georgetown, and who has nearly 60 direct descendants.

RETAIL TRADE HAS FURTHER DOWNWARD DIP

Dollar Volume Falls Five to 10 Per Cent Under That Of Last Year.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Prices remained slightly mixed in today's stock market transactions.

Up a shade were United Aircraft, American Telephone, N. Y. Central and Radio Corp. Small declines were recorded for Chrysler, Anaconda, Santa Fe and Standard Oil (NJ).

Those watching public spending for a market trend noted the Dun & Bradstreet survey which disclosed a further downturn in retail trade throughout the nation this week. For the country as a whole dollar volume fell 5 to 10 per cent under the comparable period a year ago.

The Federal Reserve board confirmed the country-wide slackening in goods purchases with an estimate that department store distribution for the week ended June 13 was 3 per cent under the like 1941 week.

GRADUATES

V. H. Traxler, Butler, Receives Ensign Commission.

Virgil H. Traxler, jr., of Butler was among the 25 Ohioans who received commissions as ensigns today upon graduation from the U. S. Naval academy at Annapolis.

Traxler was one of the 615 midshipmen who completed their four-year course in three at the academy.

In his commencement address to the class, Admiral Ernest J. King, commander-in-chief of the U. S. fleet, cautioned the graduates against "prejudice"and 'narrow-minded jealousy" between the army and navy.

"Take all proper pride in the prestige and power of the navy," King said, "but do not forget that the other great armed service—the United States army—also wears the uniform of our country—as do our fellow services of the navy—the Marine corps and the coast guard."

He said victory could be achieved "only at the cost of unremitting labor and a multitude of heartaches and sacrifices such as this country has never known before."

SWIM TO SHORE

Six Clevelanders, Including Woman, Plunge Into Lake.

LORAIN —(AP)— Six Clevelanders, including a woman, swam 500 feet to shore early today after their 30-foot speed boat struck submerged pilings in Lake Erie and sunk near here.

The coast guard was called to assist the party, which included Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stiffler, both 28, William Schachtel, R. W. Stander, Paul Witt and D. R. Davis.

STAY ON JOB

Workers Agree to Continue at Machines Pending Talks.

WESTERVILLE, O. — (U.P.) — Union employes of the Kilgore Manufacturing company agreed today to remain at their jobs pending efforts by a federal labor conciliator to settle a labor dispute.

The United Mine Workers had charged the company with dismissing four union members and with refusal to negotiate a contract. The firm has government ammunition contracts.

MANSFIELD MAN MISSING AT SEA

Parents of William Sawhill Told Son Unaccounted For After Action.

to the enemy. In the absence of official word of their death or injury, these eight are believed to be prisoners of the Japanese.

Neither of the communications received by the Sawhill family gave any details. The parents, however, expressed belief that their son had participated in the battle at Midway, and that this was the action which resulted in William being listed as missing. They received a letter on June 1 which their son had written on May 20, more than a week after the Coral sea battle.

The letter from the commanding officer of the carrier (the Navy department requests that neither the name of the captain nor the carrier be divulged) read as follows:

"The sad news that your son William is missing in action has, I am sure, already been sent to you by the Navy department. We shall all of us continue to hope that he may yet be found.

"I hope that you will receive some degree of consolation in the knowledge that he has served his country to the fullest measure and has rendered service of inestimable value. All his shipmates join me in expression of deepest sympathy."

The Navy department's telegram, sent by Rear Admiral Randall Jacobs, chief of naval personnel, told the family that further information will be supplied as soon as it is received.

William is one of the three children of the Sawhills. There is another brother, Don, 19, and a sister, Mary, 17. The father is a yard conductor at the Pennsylvania railroad yards.

Born in Mansfield, William graduated from Senior high school, where he was a member of the track team and was prominent in other extra-curricular activities. After graduation, he worked briefly at Isaly's and then for three years as a salesman in the men's department at the J. C. Penney store. He was active at Grace Gospel Tabernacle, of which he was a member.

He enlisted in the Navy Nov. 6, 1940, and received his training at the Great Lakes Naval Training station and at the Navy radio school in San Diego. He was stationed for a time on the light cruiser U. S. S. Raleigh, but last October applied for transfer to the carrier when he learned there were vacancies.

His mother saw him last at Norfolk, Va., in February. The carrier at that time was stationed in Norfolk, and later was transferred to the Pacific scene.

AXIS SUBS SINK TWO MORE SHIPS

53 Crew Members Survive As Ships Go Down.

NEW YORK — (U.P.) — A small Norwegian freighter and a Dutch cargo vessel were added today to the toll of Allied shipping that Axis submarines have taken in the western Atlantic area.

Twenty survivors of the Norwegian freighter rowed into a gulf port and revealed that their ship sank on June 14, three minutes after one "powerful" torpedo crashed into the port side. Two men were killed by the explosion; four were injured.

The Dutch vessel was the Flora, of 1,400 tons, sunk Wednesday off Riohacha, Colombia. Thirty members of the crew and six passengers arrived at Riohacha with the body of the first engineer, who apparently was the only casualty.

BOUND OVER ON SECOND DEGREE MURDER CHARGE

Accused Wife Killer Pleads Not Guilty In Fatal Stabbing Case.

Waiving preliminary hearing and pleading innocent today in municipal court, John Johnson, 42-year-old colored steel worker, was bound over to the Richland county grand jury on a second-degree murder charge in connection with the fatal stabbing of his wife, Mary, 28, Wednesday night at her Bowman street home.

Johnson was returned to the county jail where he is held without bond. He was represented in court today by Attorney George W. Biddle. His case will be submitted to the grand jury with a score of others in a session beginning next Wednesday.

The warrant accusing Johnson of stabbing his wife was drawn up by Acting Prosecutor John C. O'Donnell and signed by Sheriff Frank E. Robinson.

Johnson allegedly stabbed his estranged wife seven times in the chest and abdomen with a pocketknife after going to her home at 83 Bowman street in an attempt to patch up their differences. They had lived apart for nearly two years.

The sheriff is holding James Howard Reid, 31, colored, a roomer in the home of the slain woman, as a material witness. Reid was in the living room with Mrs. Johnson when her husband arrived at the home, Sheriff Robinson said.

County authorities attributed the slaying to jealousy, explaining that Johnson apparently believed Reid was "too friendly" with his wife.

Mrs. Johnson, who lived with her mother, Mrs. Nora Richardson, and brother, John Richardson, died a few minutes after she was stabbed.

The sheriff and a deputy, J. R. Hetler, found Johnson hiding in the basement of a residence at 711 Bowman street shortly after the stabbing.

ILL 2 MONTHS

George A. Mamber, 69, Dies; Rites Set For Saturday.

George A. Mamber, 69, life-long resident of Mansfield, died Thursday night at his home, 315 Hammond avenue, after a two-month illness.

Mr. Mamber was born in Mansfield June 26, 1872. He was a member of the First Lutheran church and was also affiliated with the Bricklayers union.

He is survived by one son, Fred Mamber, of San Rafael, Calif., and three daughters, Mrs. Carl Lofland of Plymouth, Mrs. Harry West and Mrs. Ray Armstrong of Mansfield, one sister, Mrs. Lawrence Grabler of Mansfield, nine grandchildren and three great grandchildren also survive.

Funeral services will be held Saturday at 2:30 p. m. at the Wappner funeral home with Rev. G. E. Swoyer, pastor of the First Lutheran church officiating. Burial will be made in the Mansfield Memorial park.

Post Bond—Two traffic violators each posted bond for $16.30 and signed waivers for their appearance when arrested by traffic officers here yesterday. Frank Huffman Pryor, of Wooster, was arrested upon a charge of speeding, and J. D. Williams of Louisville, Ky., was charged with crossing a yellow line at the viaduct on Park avenue west.

RELIEF COSTS IN NEW DROP

Fall Below Million Dollars for First Time In Five Years.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Poor relief expenditures in Ohio dropped below the million-dollar mark last month for the first time in five years and the second time in nine years of organized relief, Welfare Director Charles L. Sherwood reported today.

War industrial employment received major credit for the drop.

The May relief cost was $974,504, or 11 per cent under April's $1,138,288, and the number of cases dropped to a record low of 34,693.

CALL 90 TO WAR CHEST MEETING

Letters Go Out To Variety Of Organizations Called To Study Proposal.

Letters addressed to the 90 persons chosen to represent practically as many organizations on the general board of the war chest now being set up for Mansfield went out today from the Community Fund office.

Every industry, business and profession will be represented on the war chest committee which holds its first meeting, Monday June 22, at 7:30 p. m. in the Chamber of Commerce rooms. At that time the group will elect an executive committee which in turn will choose its own officers.

W. C. Mansfield, chairman of the nominating committee is calling a meeting of his group Saturday at 11 a. m. at Community Fund headquarters to set up the executive slate.

The war chest committee that will function separately from the Community Fund organization will be in charge of plans for the November campaign which will roll all war relief drives, exclusive of the Red Cross, and the Community Fund campaign into one major effort.

the Legion Home. Included in the group were a Mansfield father and son, Paul Payne, 42, and Darrell Payne, 17, who will leave July 1 to enter the navy.

Saltzgaber presided, and speakers included Commander Sam Fox of McVey Post American Legion, Mayor W. J. Locke, and Rev. Grover E. Swoyer. Gordon Schwan, president of the Co-Operative club, presented a check for $145 to the committee. This represented proceeds from the Margaret Speas revue recently sponsored by the club.

James Brownscombe was master of ceremonies at a floor show, preceded by community singing led by John Grabler. Appearing in the show were Jane and Jack Hodges of Shelby, Themie Wright, Gene Gump, and June Imhoff of Mansfield, and Kathleen Watts of Mt. Gilead.

All 36 members of the Richland Victory Civic committee and members of the county's draft boards were guests at the party.

will be divided. He indicated that a number of county co-ordinators will continue their work as salaried secretaries. He said also that district heads for all rationed items—sugar, tires, automobiles, and typewriters—will be appointed.

Richland county will be in the Cleveland district, which will include also Cuyahoga, Lake, Geauga, Medina, Portage, Summit, Ashland, Lorain, Wayne, Erie, and Huron counties.

Beckmann's announcement came on the day the rationing system here was completing one of the biggest jobs it has undertaken—registration for canning sugar. Final registrations will be accepted today at John Simpson junior high school, and no further registrations may be made for two weeks, Bailey said.
